

THERE are more things in nature than even our philosophy has yet found out. We know why men are gathering in Kern county to fight mice. The news was spread by telegraph, and there were men whose business it was to respond. But who knows why the gulls are gathering there? As happened at Salt Lake, during the early Mormon days, when the gulls appeared to put an end to the visitation of grasshoppers, so, somehow, the news has spread through the gull world that in a certain direction, two hundred miles inland, there is abundant food to be had for the catching. We know how men spread such news. Who knows how gulls do?

THE mystery, for that matter, is not confined to these exceptional occurrences. Far out at sea, a thousand miles from the nearest land, a lone gannet wheels, seeking fish. Month after month it flies its devious way, over the trackless water, wherever food leads. The most skilled human navigator without instruments and left only to his own senses, would be hopelessly lost the first day of such meanderings. But, somehow, the bird, when the breeding season comes, wings its way a thousand miles to the rocky islet where it has its nest. Whatever its method of finding its way, it is far beyond human ken.

RUSSIA declines the invitation of the League of Nations to participate in the International Economic Conference at Geneva next summer. The objection is not to the conference itself—Russia has already attended one such conference, at Geneva—but to the fact that it is held at Geneva. Russia will not permit a Soviet delegate to put his foot on the soil of Geneva for any purpose whatever.

LET it be hoped that the United States will not follow its usual course of modeling its foreign policy on that of Moscow. There are better examples to follow. Here is a conference to which there are only two possible objections. One is that the committee on the conference has shown America the consideration of leaving out of its program the subjects which it was known we would refuse to discuss—debts and tariffs. Since no thorough-going settlement of the world's economic problems is possible until these issues are faced, the conference is greatly weakened by their omission. But since we are the chief cause of the omission, we at least are not the ones to raise that objection. The other bugaboo is that the meeting is tainted by being held on the soil of Geneva. Russia has some pretense for making that objection. We have none, except the terror which the mere word "League" arouses in some of our rabbit-livered politicians.

CERTAINLY we are interested—more so than almost any one else. Here is a meeting which confessedly can not reach the end, but which will make a beginning of restoring the capacity of our customers to buy our goods and of our debtors to pay their bills. No banker or manufacturer would refuse to attend such a conference, where his own business was concerned. Neither should we, if we expect to stay in business.

CONGRESS, however, has tied the hands of the President in sending representatives to such a conference. He must, probably, either send unofficial delegates, who will pay their own expenses, or else ask Congress for permission and an appropriation. Imagine the blow-off if that were tried! The best we can hope is that America will be represented in some way within the President's power. To even that will require the boldness to cut loose from Russia and Mexico, our only present associates in world policy.

ALL nations export by preference that of which they have a surplus. In America at present, our chief surplus crop is money. We are exporting that all over the world, in foreign investments, most of which will be profitable commercially so long as they remain safe politically.

Battle Between Loyalists And Rebelling Soldiers Rages in Oporto Streets

CIVILIANS ARE SLAIN
Heavy Cannonading Continues All Morning and Loss to City Is Heavy

LIBSON, Feb. 7.—The revolutionary movement broke out in Lisbon today, supported by sailors, police, and Republican Guard and infantry forces. The ministers of foreign affairs and of the interior were arrested and a revolutionary committee was established.

(By United Press)
LISBON, Feb. 7.—Fighting between rebel and loyal troops continued today in the streets of Oporto. The Carmona government, against which an infantry regiment, the Republican Guard and a naval unit rebelled, announced that reports of the rebels' surrender had been premature.

The government announced today that four women were among the persons killed so far at Oporto and that 102 civilians had been wounded there. Several civilians also had been killed at Gaia.

Newspapers today said the government's bombardment at Oporto reached its maximum intensity at midnight. The revolutionists brought reinforcements from Valencia and government troops at Monte Pedral bombarded the fresh troops as they disembarked.

Heavy cannonading and fighting continued all morning. A single gun in the government position at Santo Vido fired 150 shots in two hours. Damage to the city of Oporto has been tremendous.

SEEK TO STRIKE OUT WORD 'OBEY'
LONDON, Feb. 7.—Proposals for revision of the Church of England Book of Common Prayer, which would eliminate the word "obey" from the marriage service, create equality of the sexes in the marriage vows and otherwise make far-reaching, controversial changes, were presented today by the bishops to the joint convocations of York and Canterbury.

Doctor Admits Driving Car of Death

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 7.—While San Francisco bay was being dragged today for the body of Elton McMahon, federal day agent, mystery surrounding his death had been cleared by Dr. J. Felton Taylor, local physician. McMahon drove Taylor's automobile off a pier into the bay the night of January 27, Taylor said. The physician swam to safety, but amnesia blotted out vents after the plunge. When he did recover his senses, he withheld the information of the fatal plunge from authorities until yesterday, hoping McMahon would turn up alive, he said.

REBELS KEEP UP SIEGE
Reinforcements, with Machine-Guns Arrive for Relief of Conservatives

(By United Press)
MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Feb. 7.—The siege of Chinandega, where a large force of Conservative government troops was beleaguered by the attacking army of General Parajon, Liberal leader, continued today, with heavy losses on both sides, the government admitted.

The Conservatives were well entrenched, with the 1500 men there under General Viquez, reinforced by 1500 more under Gen. Nogueira Gomez, who arrived last night, bringing 16 machine-guns. General Parajon resumed the attack at 5 a. m., today, after a battle that lasted throughout yesterday. Government officials said they expected he would be repulsed.

Sixteen wounded from Chinandega arrived here today. Unconfirmed reports said 200 had been killed on both sides. A rumor that Chinandega had fallen was not confirmed. The same source said the city had been fired during the night and seven squares were in flames.

American marines at Corinto have been cut off from their base of supply by the battle, which was directed by General Parajon, cutting Conservative communication between Corinto and Managua.

SACASA READY TO MEDIATE TROUBLE
WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Mediation by the United States and the four Central American republics in the Nicaraguan revolutionary situation is acceptable to Juan B. Sacasa, Liberal Nicaraguan leader, according to a message his representatives here said he had forwarded the state department today.

Sacasa said he has "been and is ready to eliminate himself" in favor of another candidate for the presidency.

SECOND TRIAL OF FLOYD HALL BEGUN

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 7.—Under heavy armed guard, Floyd Hall, convicted murderer and partner of Joe Tanko in the famous Tanko-Hall escapades in 1925, was brought to Sacramento from Folsom prison today for his second trial, which opened in superior court this morning.

Sheriff Ellis Jones announced that the whereabouts of the prisoner, while not in court, would be kept secret because of reported plot by Hall's friends to rescue him from the county jail during the trial.

Hall, who is facing his second trial for the murder of H. J. Litzberg, Sacramento merchant, April 17, 1925, was first convicted in July, 1925, but the jury disagreed as to the penalty. Superior Judge C. O. Busick set July 15 for the execution.

Many Mirrors Put In College Halls

FRESNO, Feb. 7.—Full-sized mirrors were placed in the corridors of Fresno State college, today, to improve the walking posture of the students. The looking glasses were installed at turns in the hallways so the scholars may see how they look to others when they walk.

ZONING PLANS ARE TO BE PUT UP TO COUNCIL

Commission Would Open All of Main Street To Business

Zoning of Main street for business, from the north to the south city limits; North Broadway for apartments to Washington avenue, and establishment of a set-back line on North Main, from Seventh street to the north city limits, are highlights in recommendations, the planning commission will make to the city council tonight, in connection with the present movement for zoning of the city.

With the filing of the recommendations, the commission will have completed its public hearings and investigations as to areas in the city in which only certain types of business, industrial and residential construction should be permitted.

Final adoption of the map and ordinance rests with the city council. Mayor Frank Furinton today was not in position to say whether the council tonight would attempt to conclude considerations by adopting the map, and the ordinance which has been prepared to make the zoning program effective.

Believe Zoning Necessary
He expressed the belief, however, that members of the council had satisfied themselves that zoning is necessary in Santa Ana, and that the program, as outlined by Dr. Carl Aronovici and the planning commission, is as near perfect as possible of development at this time. In his opinion, the council members have acted co-operatively and in all probability will take definite action tonight.

Establishment of a set-back line on North Main street is to be made effective by relocations of 45 feet from the center line of the street, the center line dimensions being adopted instead of ten-foot set-back line because of the varying widths of the street.

The paved section of North Main street, curb to curb, today is 46 feet, and widening plans for the street contemplate at some future date a road width of 56 feet.

Clyde Jenkins, city engineer, today commented on the possibility of the state highway, from Chapman street bridge to the north city limits, being widened to include a paved width of 56 feet, and he pointed out the necessity at this time for Santa Ana making provision for the widening of Main street, at least as far south as Seventh street.

Nels T. Edwards, former member of the state highway commission, has long been agitating the widening of the state highway from the bridge to the city limits, and it is presumed that the new commission and engineers will continue to give consideration to the project. Edwards also had discussed plans for widening between Anaheim and Fullerton. Broadening of a state highway is a project in which the commission, county boards of supervisors and individual property owners have acted co-operatively, and it is anticipated this procedure will be followed in case widening from the bridge to the city limits finally is accomplished.

APPROVAL OF FARM RELIEF IS EXPECTED

Leaders of Agricultural Bloc Anticipate Measure Will Pass Both Houses

SENATE MARGIN OF SIX
McNary-Haugen Proposal Likely to Get Majority Of 20 in Lower Branch

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Only an unexpected break can prevent adoption of the McNary-Haugen price-stabilization bill, farm bloc leaders of both houses predicted today, as congress entered its last 20 working days of the short session.

Both Chairman McNary, of the senate agriculture committee, and Chairman Haugen, of the house path of the farm measure in the vote may be expected before the end of the week. They predicted the long-delayed farm relief measure would pass the senate by a margin of at least six votes and the house by perhaps 20.

If the vote is in danger of delay, Senator Gooding, Republican, Idaho, is prepared to offer the senate a cloture provision to limit debate. There is no danger of a filibuster in the house, but the bill may encounter some parliamentary difficulties to hold it up beyond the planned period for debate.

Radio Bill Sole Obstacle
The radio bill, lone obstacle in the agriculture committee, agreed a senate is to be cleared away this afternoon and then the farm bill is scheduled to be kept before the senate until final action is obtained. McNary does not expect debate to last more than two or three days. "There are few amendments to consider and friends of the measure have decided to keep silent in order to speed it up."

House leaders today began an inventory of pending legislation, preparatory to turning over to the legislative undertaker many bills and resolutions reported favorably by committees. Only bills of major importance will be accorded a place on the calendar for the remainder of the session.

Appropriation Bills Passed
All appropriation bills have been passed. The legislative bill is expected to be sent to the senate either today or tomorrow and the second deficiency bill will be taken up some time next week.

Some of the measures which probably will be given a preferential place follow:
Authority for the veterans' bureau to grant loans on adjusted compensation certificates; authority for construction of 10 new cruisers; improvement of naval stations; construction of a new house office building, and construction of additional veterans' hospitals.

Leaders are still "up in the air" on several important matters, including reappointment of Boulder dam, Muscle Shoals and creation of a private corporation to handle medicinal whiskey.

Worry Over Boulder Dam
The Boulder dam and Muscle Shoals problems are causing no end of worry. The Shoals measure stands a better chance of solution than the dam problem. Boulder dam, Muscle Shoals and creation of a private corporation to handle medicinal whiskey.

While the Swing-Johnson bill has advanced farther this session than at any time during its six years before congress, there is a general feeling among veteran members that the measure is dead. Members believe the rules committee will continue to refuse to report a special rule for the bill until the seven states affected come to an agreement, and there is little indication here that this is possible before adjournment. Despite the outlook, Representative Swing, Republican, California, co-author of the bill, intends to continue to fight for a place for it on the calendar.

H. M. DAUGHERTY

Attorney general in Harding cabinet, who, with Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian, went on trial in New York today, charged with conspiracy to "defraud the government of their unprejudiced services as officials."

DAUGHERTY AND MILLER PLACED ON TRIAL AGAIN

Former Attorney General Appears Weary When He Enters Court

(By United Press)
NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Harry M. Daugherty, once a power in Washington, was a tired man when he came into federal court today to watch the selection of a jury that will try him and Thomas W. Miller on a charge of conspiracy to "defraud the government of their unprejudiced services as officials."

There was nothing in Daugherty today to suggest that he was the nation's attorney general in the Harding cabinet. Since his first trial, a few months ago, when a jury disagreed after 46 hours of deliberation, he has lost the sight of his left eye. He appeared completely fatigued.

Colonel Miller, who in 1921, was alien property custodian, was in better spirits. He chatted with his wife, who sat by him during the five weeks of the first trial.

Daugherty and Miller were indicted in connection with the return of $7,000,000 assets of the American Metals company, impounded under the trading with the enemy act, to Richard Merton, German metal magnate, who had said he paid a "fee" of $441,000 for "help and speed" in obtaining the transfer.

A panel of 115 veniremen was called.

MAN IS KILLED BY HIT-RUN DRIVER

EL CENTRO, Feb. 7.—State traffic police began a search here today for the car which struck and killed Carl E. Fox, 45, five miles south of here, on the Calexico road, yesterday afternoon.

A letter in the victim's pocket gave an address at 809 East Fifth street, Los Angeles. Other papers indicated that Fox came to California recently from Wisconsin.

Kellogg Proposes International Area of City Be Made Neutral Zone

(By United Press)
SHANGHAI, Feb. 7.—The American steamer Ichang was subjected to a severe rifle fire near Ichang, on the Yangtze river, advices reaching here today said.

None of the persons aboard was injured, but later the steamer crashed on the rocks and foundered.

(The vessel is believed to be the same one designated as the Iping in consular reports received at the state department in Washington today.)

CONSUL REPORTS AMERICANS SHELLED
WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—American refugees from the interior of China have been fired upon by the Chinese, but without casualties, American Consul Lockhart reported to the state department from Hankow today.

The incident occurred at Patung, where Chinese fired upon two American commercial vessels, the Iping and Chilai, carrying refugees down the river.

"American vessels may be forced to abandon this regular commercial service, since transportation on the Ichang Chungking route (Yangtze river) is very difficult at present," Lockhart said.

"From Hankow down the river, transportation is also increasingly difficult and very inadequate."

The firing incident occurred Saturday.

WASHINGTON AWAITS ANSWERS FROM CHINA
WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—With safety of 5000 Americans at stake, the administration today grimly awaited answers from the Chinese war lords to its proposal to neutralize the Shanghai international settlement.

First indications that Chang Tso Lin, northern chief, will accept, but that the Nationalist leader, Chiang Kai Shek, may refuse, increased apprehension in official quarters here.

Unless Chiang and Chang and the Shanghai defender, Marshal Sun Chung Fang, agree to eliminate the international settlement from the civil war zone of military operations, President Coolidge is determined to use the U. S. Asiatic fleet and marine force to protect Americans in an emergency.

Officials here pointed out that the Kellogg proposal covers only the foreign section of Shanghai, and therefore cannot justify be interpreted as partisan interference, either on the side of the Nationalist invaders or Sun's defenders of the native city.

The text of Kellogg's proposal to the three war lords, published by the state department today, follows in part:

"The fate of the American interests in the international settlement during the course of the internecine warfare, now unhappily in progress in China, is the occasion of great anxiety to the American government. As the result of the efforts of two generations of foreigners and Chinese, this area has acquired a foremost position among the great ports of the world."

"The settlement is the vital center of commerce that ramifies throughout China and extends throughout the world. To a supreme degree, the interests of the Chinese people and the people of foreign nations require that here order shall prevail. It is the port through which pass 40 per cent of the trade of China upon which millions of Chinese depend for their livelihood."

Bandits Fire at Fleeing Autoists

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7.—Deputy sheriffs began a search here today for bandits, who, in attempting to hold up Mr. and Mrs. J. Starr, fired bullets through the windshield of their automobile, late yesterday, on Telegraph road, near the Union Pacific viaduct. Instead of obeying the command of the holdup men, Starr sped his machine and the bandits opened fire. The couple escaped uninjured.

FIVE INJURED, ONE PROBABLY FATALLY, IN WEEK END AUTO CRASHES IN ORANGE COUNTY

Three persons were seriously injured, one of them probably fatally, in a head-on automobile collision at 7:30 last night on the Santa Ana canyon road, five and a half miles east of Olive.

Joe Castro, 50, 912 East Walnut street, Santa Ana, is in the Orange County hospital, suffering from a severe fracture of the skull. He is not expected to live. Jose Leon, companion of Castro, is suffering from severe cuts and bruises and Mrs. C. L. Kinder, 315 Pacific avenue, Long Beach, has a badly wrenched arm and cuts and bruises.

Mrs. Kinder was in a machine driven by M. Walfenstein, 315 Pacific avenue, Long Beach, when the car collided with the machine occupied by Milton and Joe Castro, Jose Leon and D. Muro, all of Santa Ana.

Struck Third Car
Deputy Sheriff Adams and Meyer, who hurried to the scene of the accident, reported that the Muro machine struck a third car following the crash and then overturned. A report to the effect that several other persons, occupants of the third car, were injured and taken to Anaheim, could not be confirmed.

Polly Ross, 17, San Juan Capistrano, was slightly hurt at 6:30 p. m., Saturday, when the machine, which she was driving, collided with a car reported to have been driven by Dave McDougall, 617 East Seventeenth street, at the intersection of Chestnut street and Broadway. Miss Ross was able to file an accident report at the police station.

Two persons, occupants of a machine said to have been driven by J. E. Martino, Los Angeles, were badly shaken up when their car collided with a car driven by S. J. Park, 931 English street, Santa Ana, at First and Garfield street, yesterday morning, according to a report filed at the police station.

Woman Slightly Hurt
Mrs. Mary McCormick, Los Angeles, was reported slightly injured in an automobile accident at 2:40 p. m., Saturday, south of San Juan Capistrano, on the San Diego highway. She was taken to San Juan Capistrano, where her injuries were given medical attention, and then removed to her home. A report of the accident was made by William D. Bodie, Los Angeles.

Cars driven by C. M. Vaughn, of 1307 Corona street, Anaheim, and James Clemmer, 119 West South street, were badly damaged when they collided head-on in the dense fog on Lincoln road, near Anaheim, early Sunday morning, according to a report received here. The occupants of the machines were not injured.

With Clemmer were Victor Fleming, 1223 Lincoln road, and two young women companions, it was said.

TRAGIC DEATHS ON WEST COAST PLACED AT NINE

(By United Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 7.—Death trod lightly up and down the Pacific coast over the week-end, with the result that only nine persons comprised the toll of those who died from unnatural causes, a United Press compilation shows today. Only one automobile fatality, a victim of a hit-run motorist, was reported. In spite of the fact that rain in most sections caused slippery pavements and treacherous roads, the automobile death toll was the lowest in many months.

There were, however, 47 injuries, mostly minor, from automobile mishaps. Shootings were responsible for four deaths. One was a double murder, in which two brothers were slain. Explosion of a moonshine still claimed two lives.

The death toll included: California
Hayward—John Orlando, 23, and Joseph Piani, 25, alleged still operators, died from burns from still explosion. Apparatus said to have been largest in Alameda county. San Francisco—Low Wah, Oakland Chinese, shot dead during Chinese new year celebration quarrel.

Salinas—Bill and Dan Estes, shot to death in lonely ranch house near here; liquor said to have played part.

San Gabriel—John Sexton, aged prospector, drowned.

El Centro—Carl E. Fox, 45, Los Angeles, killed by hit-run motorist.

Fresno—Mrs. Catherine A. Curtiss, 31, mother of two, suicide, poison.

Washington
Burlington—Napoleon Downey, Burlington, shot and killed by Charles Ewing when latter allegedly found him in machine with Ewing's wife.

Seattle—Daniel F. Flynn, died from injuries received when hit by steam shovel.

WHEELING STOCK TRADING ACTIVE

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—With the loan rate on Wheeling and Lake Erie railroad stock the highest on any stock in the history of the New York stock exchange, that heretofore obscure railroad continued the center of interest in trading today. Brokers who sold short were offering 6 per cent for the loan of stock with which to cover their short commitments during the afternoon—which meant they would pay $600 a day for each 100 shares they borrowed to make delivery of the stock they had sold. Not even in the famous Northern Pacific corner of 1901 or in the Stutz corner of a few years ago, was the loan rate so high.

At 1:45 p. m., 6500 shares of the stock had changed hands during the day, the price once touching 95, and at that hour back down to 92, which was 9 points higher than Saturday's close and nearly double the price for which the stock sold a few weeks ago.

EARLY TRIAL IS DEMANDED BY BANK ROBBER

Raymond R. Remington, now serving a sentence in San Quentin for robbery of a bank in Watts, refuses to await his release before being tried for robbery of the First National bank, of Olive, for which crime he has been indicted.

Accordingly, Remington will be brought to Santa Ana at once for trial, the date of which has not yet been fixed. Deputy Sheriffs started north this afternoon with instructions and authority to bring Remington back with them. His trial, it is said, must be held before February 27, or his prosecution will be delayed.

Remington, himself, precipitated the action by forwarding a written demand for immediate trial from San Quentin prison. The code, it is said, provides that a defendant must be brought to trial within 60 days after an information or indictment is filed with the court. Remington was indicted by the Orange county grand jury on Dec. 27, 1926. His trial therefore must start by February 27, it is stated.

Presiding Judge E. J. Marks, of the Orange county superior court, issued orders Saturday for the return of Remington from San Quentin to Santa Ana for the trial, which is slated to be held before Judge Homer G. Ames. Officers who left Santa Ana this afternoon for Folsom prison, with John Luis Maron, sentenced for the crime of possession of firearms by a convicted felon, were instructed to bring Remington home with them on their return. The Olive bank robbery occurred in June, 1924, a lone bandit securing $2400 in cash after holding up Cashier K. V. Wolff and a woman employee of the bank. Confederates, in a high-powered car, a short distance away, were believed to have aided the bandit in making his escape. Remington later was tried in Los Angeles for robbery of a bank in Watts. Cashier Wolff at that time identified him as the Olive bandit, it is said. Remington was sentenced to San Quentin for a term of not less than five years. When he was indicted by the grand jury here, it was planned that he would be prosecuted at the expiration of his present sentence, but Remington took matters into his own hands by demand for the immediate trial. Local officials analyzed the move by expressing the opinion that he hoped, if convicted here, to serve both sentences together.

WEST CARRIES ON FIRST PROSECUTION

J. F. Lauricelli, of Long Beach, first defendant to face prosecution in superior court by District Attorney Z. B. West Jr., went on trial today before a "new" jury in Judge Homer G. Ames' court.

Lauricelli was charged with driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, following an accident in Santa Ana canyon last September 7. E. Hill, of Riverside, is complaining witness in the case. The 1927 trial jury reported for its first service today in the Lauricelli case, 40 members of the panel being summoned for duty during the next three months.

Attorney O. A. Jacobs, of Santa Ana, conducted the defense of Lauricelli. District Attorney Z. B. West Jr., and Chief Deputy L. W. Blodgett appeared for the state in their initial superior court trial as prosecutors. At the noon recess, examination of jurors still was in progress.

EVANGELIST SPEAKS TO BIBLE STUDENTS

Mrs. Benton, of the evangelistic team of Benton and Ritchey, was the principal speaker at the meeting yesterday morning of the Men's Community Bible class, held in the West Coast-Walker theater.
"My Experiences in the Midnight Mission in Los Angeles" was the topic of Mrs. Benton's address, which proved to be one of the best talks heard by the class in several months, according to W. B. Martin, class president.
The Bible lesson for the day was read by E. A. Cox and the regular weekly talk by the Rev. F. T. Porter, class teacher, completed the program. The Rev. Mr. Porter talked on "Use of Man's Talents."
One hundred and seventy members of the class were present.

Heinz Increases
Pickle Business

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Feb. 7.—
The pickle business is going to be good in the delta region of Sacramento valley next year. The well-known H. J. Heinz expects to double the capacity of his plant at Isleton, and work will begin April 1.
Heinz processing of pickles began here in 1924 with 400 acres of land planted to cucumbers. Last year the acreage was about 1,500 acres, and in 1927 is expected to exceed 3,000. Plant and field operations will employ 400 men and women.

An effort will be made at the present session of the Colorado legislature to revise the workmen's compensation law so as to bring the average benefits to the level of those provided in other states.

TUBBS PRAISES COUNTY OFFICERS IN RESUME TO CHARLES F. HAVENS

Santa Ana, Calif.,
Feb. 7, 1927.

Mr. Editor: I do not believe that I have ever met Mr. Charles F.
Havens and am certainly unable to understand it, as he claims, he is an orchardist, why he should take exception to my article published in your paper, January 31.
As you will recall, that article was written at your request during a little conversation we had regarding a certain editorial and was delivered to you personally by me.
I made numerous visits to the horticultural office collecting information and the statements in that article are true with the exception of one typographical error which said 1000 instead of 100, as originally written.

I have been an interested student of horticulture since 1888, and have followed closely the introduction of the various citrus pests and their control. In the early 90's, I made daily visits to the ranch of the late Dr. Wall watching his experimental work on fum-igation, which was the origin of the present successful control of red, black and purple scale and later assisted him in colonizing the golden fly in an attempt to control the red scale.

I know Office Importance
I have followed closely the work of such men as Cooke, Cooper, Craw, Coquillett, Dr. Webber, Professor Quayle and others. Certainly,
I should be in a position to appreciate the importance of the horticultural office and its work.

Some of Professor Quayle's first research work on the walnut pests was done in a row of old sawing hand shell ranches along the west side of my ranch. This row of trees was later removed, much to the disappointment of Professor Quayle and under protest of many of my friends.

I did not dwell on the walnut, bean, beet, pepper, alfalfa, barley, livestock or various other products of the soil industries, all of which come directly under the supervision of the horticultural office of the soil industries, all of which come directly under the supervision of the horticultural office for the reason that I was not writing a book.

Regarding this so-called lobbying, I was not informed that such a meeting was to be held, was not at that meeting, do not know who organized it, but I heartily endorse the movement and appreciate the action taken. It is my understanding that any citizen or body of people have the right to appear before the grand jury on any matter of public importance and the grand jury have the right to make recommendations on evidence produced at that public hearing.

Commends County Officials
In conclusion, it has been my privilege to have visited quite a number of counties and their various offices. I do not believe that the county exists that has a better lot of officials than Orange county.
It is my good fortune to be personally acquainted with practically every one of them and it is one of my pleasures to occasionally call around and say "hello." I have always been courteously received and any information I have asked for has been cheerfully given.

Try this once Mr. Havens and then come out to my ranch and smoke a good cigar and talk over these various pests and the probable manner of handling them. I am sure that I can convince you that the world is not made up of a lot of sharks and buzzards, each trying to get the better of the other fellow. I am sure that I can convince you that this is a good old world to live in and that kindly encouragement will accomplish far more than unjust criticism.

Monterey Cypress
Trees Germinate

BERKELEY, Feb. 7.—Discovery that seeds of the Monterey cypress will germinate at least 20 years after they have reached maturity and been dropped by the parent tree, has been proven by a series of experiments made at University of California. C. R. Clar, forestry student, found that out of 100 seeds extracted from cypress cones 20 years old, 15 germinated.

Court Notes

Gets $3000 Judgment
I. D. Annis has been awarded judgment for $3000 and foreclosure of a mortgage against Santa Ana property, in connection with his appeal against W. B. Martin and other defendants. The judgment, allowed by Superior Judge E. J.
Marks, also included $87.82 interests, $10 costs and $250 attorney fees. G. H. Scott was attorney for Annis.

Will Open Bids

granted a decree to Sadie M. Irwin, quieting title to property in Cota Mesa, against claims of F.
W. Goettel.

$825 Judgment Allowed Judgment for $825 has been allowed C. H. Chapman, of Santa Ana, against Thermowave Manufacturing company, for delinquent rental on a building at 1201 East
First street, Santa Ana. Attorney
Clyde Bishop represented Chapman in the suit, which was heard by Superior Judge H. G. Ames.

Judgment For $669
Judgment for $669, involving a $500 note, interest and counsel fees was awarded by Superior Judge E.
J. Marks in the case of W. J.
Hansler against B. Hays, court records revealed today. Attorney Roland Thompson was counsel for the plaintiff.

To Recover Possession
Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Russell have filed suit in superior court, through Attorney Gus Hagenstein, of Fullerton, to recover possession of property which they claim is wrongfully held by Mr. and Mrs.
Jesse R. Eilers, tenants of the property. The premises are situated at Seventeenth street and Newport avenue, near Lemon Heights.
Besides possession, the plaintiffs demand judgment for $150 rental and ask this amount be trebled as damages.

Seek To Foreclose
Masonic Homes of California, a corporation, has brought action in superior court against Florence E.
Cole, Jerome C. Seelye and others, to foreclose a $3500 mortgage against property consisting of 1.15 acres in Anaheim. The mortgage, originally held by Mr. and Mrs.
John Keyes, was purchased by the plaintiff, who is represented in the court action by Attorney William P. Webb Jr.

BIGAMY CHARGE

Mrs. Eva Diebolt, alleged possessor of three husbands of greater or less degree of legal standing, will be arraigned tomorrow on a bigamy charge before Superior Judge James L. Allen, according to an order made when an information of the charge was filed with the court this morning by Deputy District Attorney Roy V.
Shafer.

The woman told Judge Allen today that she was without funds for the employment of an attorney, whereupon the court named Attorney Roger C. Dutton, of Anaheim, as her counsel. The arraignment was set over until tomorrow, at 9:30 a. m., to allow time for the defendant to confer with her attorney.

It was reported from reliable quarters today that she planned to enter a plea of guilty and throw herself upon the mercy of the court.
The bigamy charge against Mrs.
Diebolt was preferred by her third alleged husband, Anthony F. Diebolt, of Los Angeles, who is supported in his charges by George B. Cox, said to be the second husband. It is claimed that the woman married Diebolt without being divorced from Cox. Diebolt says she told him Cox was dead.

Before her marriage to Cox, Mrs.
Diebolt was said to have been the wife of James Borton, whom she married in Baker City, Ore. She her marriage to Diebolt took place in Santa Ana. The bigamy charge being based upon this marriage, the prosecutions necessarily thrown into this county.

MOTORISTS ARE STARTLED BY NUDE PROWLER

Almost a dozen motorists, driving in the vicinity of Fairview, last night, were startled to see a nude man suddenly appear within range of their automobile lights, only to disappear suddenly, before the car came close to him.

The sheriff's office was notified by several persons, who had seen the man, and officers searched the neighborhood for several hours before finding him.

The man was found lying in a stable, all his clothes removed, at 2 a. m., today, by Undersheriff Ed French and Ed McClellan, deputy sheriff, who took him to the Orange county hospital, where he is being held for observation.

When the first call came to the sheriff's office, Sheriff Jernigan and McClellan made a search of the neighborhood, but were unable to find the man. They found his clothes, however, in the road. Jernigan returned to the office and dispatched Undersheriff French to aid McClellan in the search for the man.

Police News

C. L. Hazard, 49, iceman, of 1014 Highland avenue, was arrested yesterday in Huntington Beach by City Marshal Jack Tinsley and D. D. Adams, deputy sheriff. He is being held in the county jail on a charge of possession of intoxicating liquor.

H. F. Zilka, 412 South Central avenue, Glendale, was arrested yesterday on the state highway, near San Juan Capistrano, charged with speeding 56 miles an hour. Officer Ernie Sawyer made the arrest. The man will appear next Friday in Justice John Landell's court, San Juan Capistrano.

W. E. Chelson, 930 South Main street, reported to police yesterday that he had found several pieces of garden hose on his lawn. Police are of the opinion that the hose pieces were stolen from the brass on the ends of them.

Genial Host Is Made Honored Guest in His Own Home

Dr. F. W. Slabaugh of 1602 North Main street found himself occupying the enviable position of honored guest in his own home, Saturday evening, when Mrs. Slabaugh entertained a few of their closer friends at dinner in honor of her genial husband's birthday.

Dinner was served at a large round table on whose snowy linens, various flowers made lovely pools of color. Pink carnations were there, and yellow daisies and fragrant white hyacinths. Nut cups were golden yellow and name cards in yellow and rose, distinguished each place.

The dinner menu was deftly served by the two daughters of the home, Miss Virginia Slabaugh, down from her studies at University of Southern California for the week-end, and Miss Helen Slabaugh. The final course included a gaily ornamental birthday cake which the host had the pleasure of cutting and serving.

In the after dinner period, feminine guests sought bridge tables while their lords gathered around the fire in the library to smoke and chat. For a bridge prize, Mrs. Slabaugh had provided a charming doll whose colorful silken costume concealed a pin cushion, and this was won by Mrs. James E. Paul.

To make the occasion even more enjoyable, was the presence of Dr. Slabaugh's brother, Dr. W. H. Slabaugh of Los Angeles, together with Mrs. W. H. Slabaugh and her sister, Miss Lu Hunt, all of whom were houseguests in the home and returned to Los Angeles last night with Miss Virginia Slabaugh when she went back to school.

BACHELORS TO AWARD CO-ED BEAUTY HONORS

Pretty co-eds in the Santa Ana junior college today were critically surveying their appearances, in their compact mirrors, to make sure their cheeks were rouged and the shine "dusted" off their faces.

The Bachelors of Bachelors has announced a beauty contest, to select the fairest co-ed in the college.

Twelve organizations of the college have entered candidates and the interest in the election is increasing as each boasts its representative for the pulchritude "honors."

The contest will be held during the week beginning February 14, it was announced.

Even the Bachelors are backing a candidate for the beauty title. Miss Sarah Hales, former Santa Ana high school girl, is their candidate.

Other girls suggested as the fairest in the college are Miss Myrtle Ketchum, sponsored by the college "Y"; Miss Emily Holmes, men's organization; Miss Goldie Jacobson, Spanish club; Miss Dorothy Beale, German club; Miss Rebecca Budrow, French club; Miss Catherine Best, La Boheme; Miss Helen Young, press club; Miss Hazel Smith, Purple S club; Miss Portia Friedenbloom, sophomore class; Miss Margaret Gaebbe, freshman class, and Miss Thelma Moorehouse, chorus.

Man Is Held on Liquor Charge

E. L. Williamson, 45, oil worker, of 227 South Neuman street, Whittier, is being held in the county jail on a charge of possession of intoxicating liquor, and E. A. Biggs, 23, a mechanic, of Huet, Minn., his companion, is in jail for investigation, following arrest of the men at 8 p. m., Saturday.

The men were arrested on the Coast boulevard, south of Huntington Beach, by State Traffic Officers Aldrich and Stinson, who turned the pair over to sheriff's officers.

The men probably will be given a hearing today in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court.

In point of continuous existence the Denver, Colo. Local No. 18, organized in 1859, is said to be the oldest union of cooks in America.

Ebell clubhouse, for an international program under the chairmanship of Miss Irene Catland, L. L. Beeman will be the speaker. His topic will be "The Modern Tower of Babel." Miss Charlotte Caldwell will give an interpretive Japanese dance, and Mrs. John P. Williams will sing a group of Scotch songs. A large attendance is anticipated.

ENGINEERS ARE CALLED IN ON POWER PUZZLE

The city council was scheduled to hold an informal conference at 4 p. m., today, for the second round of its battle to determine which is the cheaper power, gas or electricity.

The council called for bids for two gas engines as motor equipment for its new Bristol street water plant and last Monday night bids were opened. Action was deferred to tonight.

Last Monday afternoon, representatives of the two different types of power discussed with the council the merits of each and the expert engineers on the respective sides left the minds of the council so "fogged" that they decided they would enlist the services of expert mechanical engineers to lead them out of the fog and place before them concrete facts and unbiased opinions as to which of the two would give the city efficient service at the least cost.

The selection of a competent engineer was delegated to Clyde Jenkins, city engineer, who secured the services of Olmstead and Gillette, Los Angeles. O. A. Stone, representing the firm, will present conclusions and recommendations of the engineering firm at the conference this afternoon.

SERIES OF DANCES ANNOUNCED BY INN

R. L. Bisby, manager of St. Ann's Inn, today announced completion of plans for a public dance at the Inn every Friday night, starting this week. Dancing will be from 8:30 to midnight.

Stating that he was initiating the series of dances in co-operation with Carr Brothers' orchestra, of Los Angeles, the inn manager said that the schedule was designed to offer to young folk and adults opportunity for dancing with surroundings decidedly imitative of the home.

Dana Hayes, manager of the orchestra, was here today and, asserting that the 10-piece orchestra was one of the best musical organizations in the Southland, pointed to the fact that the orchestra long has been identified with the Cinderella roof, in Los Angeles, and that it closed its engagement there Saturday night.

The orchestra, he said, is playing a regular dance circuit, providing dance music five nights a week, playing once a week at the Oakmont Country club, Glendale; Pickering park, San Bernardino; Long Beach and Pasadena.

"The orchestra has become noted in dance circles for the beauty of its tone quality, perfection of dance rhythm and power of musical climax," Hayes said.

$250 Fine Levied Against Reckless Driver by Court

Fleeting guilty to a charge of reckless driving, Bud Bergren, 29, 1333 1-2 Burlington street, Los Angeles, today paid a $250 fine in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court. He was arrested at Orana at 9 p. m., yesterday, by Officers Walter Meyer and Ray Bradford, state police, and booked in the county jail on a charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor.

Bail of $250 was made by Bergren's wife last night and he was released until today.

CRIME DECREASES

LONDON, Feb. 7.—Scotland Yard has received from the 24 divisions of the police gratifying reports of the scarcity of crime recently. Crimes of violence have been non-existent and only a few minor assault cases have been dealt with. Each superintendent has been congratulated on the most satisfactory record in the recent years of war on crime.

House Party Is Given As Surprise Event For Miss Jones

A group of close friends of Miss Eunice Jones conspired to honor that very busy school principal and fiancée of the Rev. Howard Strickland of Ventura. In a most delightful and thoroughly Southern manner, as an end of the week affair, when the honoree could temporarily lay aside the cares and responsibilities of her position as principal of the Edison school.

Not that Miss Jones was aware of the plans for her entertainment, for they were kept in darkest secrecy by the hostess group, Mrs. T. J. Hunter, Miss Martha Bell Pugh and Miss Rebecca Oglesby. But she unsuspectingly planned to spend the evening with the little group, in the attractive home of Mr. and Mrs. Hunter on a big orange grove between Santa Ana and Anaheim.

But when she arrived with her bit of needlework for a quiet evening of sewing and chat, she found a crowd of friends to greet her in a home that bloomed with hearts, like a garden bloomed with flowers. Appropriate games were introduced and then all settled down to fashioning tea towels, hot dish holders, table mats, dust cloths, and various other pretty articles, all designed for use in the future home of the honoree when she becomes a minister's wife.

Each one present then wrote a gay little verse of greeting on cards provided for that purpose and after Miss Jones had read these aloud, she was asked to read what was written on the reverse of each card. Thus she received Cupid's instructions, which led her on a long trail from heart to heart, until finally, within a securely locked garage whose key she had to seek, she found, hidden in an automobile, a handsome Kenwood blanket in her favorite rose tints, a gift from her friends.

Chicken salad with wafers, hot chocolate and macaroons were served as the final enjoyable feature of the evening, with valentine appointments including the saucy Cupid nut cups.

Of the close friends comprising the guest list, Mrs. Moffett Rhodes, Miss Hester Covington, Mrs. Ruth G. Waller, Mrs. Kenneth Morrison, Mrs. George Ketcher, Mrs. Leon Elliott and Mrs. T. W. Oglesby then returned to their respective homes, while Miss Eunice Jones, the honoree, her mother and two sisters, Mrs. A. A. Jones and Miss Yena Jones of this city and Mrs. Thomas Grant of Redlands, Miss Willelgh Welsh, also of Redlands, and a sister of Mrs. Hunter, Miss Cora Lee Ritter, Miss Hazel Greenleaf, Miss Mabel Ozment and Mrs. Grider Barnett, remained to be house-guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hunter and their two little people, Mary Willelgh and David.

The house-party was a gay event, and adding to its charm was the opportunity for each guest to assume some of the daily duties of the home, for cards were distributed so that each was given some task, "many hands making light work." To Mrs. A. A. Jones was given the duty of making hot biscuits for breakfast, and everyone revelled in the flaky, toothsome little southern biscuits.

The engagement of Miss Jones and Mr. Strickland was announced early in January, but no wedding plans have been made public, and the bride's friends take for granted that she will complete her teaching year at the Edison school.

Santa Ana Pioneer Is Honored on Birthday

Mrs. Sarah Ostott of 206 South Main street, well known pioneer, who has lived in Santa Ana for 41 years, on last Friday reached the ninety-fourth mile-stone of her long and useful life.

The birthday was celebrated with a delightful chicken dinner at noon, with covers laid for Mrs. Ostott's only son, Bert Ostott, San Juan Capistrano druggist, Mrs. Ostott and their little daughter, Sarah Louise, Robert Gramm, grandson and Mrs. Ostott's companion, Mrs. Ella Denney, who prepared the dinner. The dining room and table was bright with full-blown pink roses, typical of the ripe old age of the honoree. They were artistically combined with lacy ferns, which were twined about the electroliners. The living rooms were trans-

Washington's Birthday Will Be Celebrated At St. Ann's

No more appropriate setting for affairs with a colonial flavor, could be devised than St. Ann's Inn with its sweeping garden, walks and its architecture so reminiscent of the best in pillared and porticoed country houses of the Georgian period. Hence the announcement that the manager, Robert L. Bisby, had planned a special celebration of the birthday of George Washington, whom he designates as the "greatest character in American history," is being received with pleasurable interest by patrons and friends of the Inn.

Two widely divergent but equally enjoyable functions will be staged, the first, a dinner on Sunday, February 20, and the second, a dinner dance on the evening of the birthday anniversary itself, Tuesday, February 22.

On Sunday the usual plan will prevail of serving continuously from 12 o'clock noon until 8 p. m. with a wonderful menu to offer its delights to epicurean palates. This will be served in a picturesque setting, for combined with the dinner will be an exhibit of antiques, which will transform the Inn into an old-fashioned colonial home.

Various Santa Anans have promised their co-operation and will loan treasured heirlooms of spinning wheels, quaint old spinets whose tunes are long since stilled, samplers worked painstakingly by youthful hands that are now dust, old family portraits, rare pieces of furniture in period style, and countless other objects valuable and beautiful.

To heighten the effect, will be a bevy of charming young people costumed as beaux and belles of that early day. They will mingle with the guests informally, adding the final touch of old time charm and beauty to the scene. This group under the direction of Miss Edith Cornell of the music department of Julia Lathrop Junior high school, will add quaint old songs, piano numbers and other delightful features to the day, so that each group of diners will have the pleasure of hearing program features.

Mr. Bisby has emphasized the fact that dinner reservations must be made in advance if the town people would share in the day's happy features, for the demand for tables is always great and unless they be reserved for special parties and special hours, the casual drop-in stands poor chance of joining the happy group in the big dining room.

On Tuesday night will be featured the big Washington's birthday dinner dance, strictly colonial in all its details. The same dignified atmosphere of that early day will be preserved in all appointments, and guests are asked to come in costume if possible although it is not obligatory. Miss Mabel Rockwell of the Rockwell Studio of the Dance will direct the evening's amusement and has arranged some most interesting features, including a few program numbers. With "George and Martha" to open the ball with the beautiful dignity and grace that was a feature of colonial festivities, the evening promises to be one of undiluted pleasure.

Dinner will be served from 6 to 8 o'clock, and dancing will begin at 9 o'clock, thus allowing the latest and most leisurely diners ample time to enjoy the appetizing dinner menu promised. Chapman's orchestra has been secured and promises a program of captivating music. Reservations for either event may be made any time by telephoning the Inn, 626.

formed into bowers of bloom with the floral gifts of friends, who called in large numbers during the afternoon, the guests being the members of the First Methodist church and the Sunday school class, of which Mrs. Ostott is a member.

The pioneer was also showered with lovely birthday cards and registered letters, many of which contained gifts and substantial checks, to cheer the declining days of the honoree who, although almost deprived of her sight is in fairly good health and who was able during the afternoon to recount many interesting incidents of her girlhood days in Ohio and on Lake Erie.

A Dozen Young People Share Pleasures of Evening Party

A merry party of young people was that called together at the end of the week for an enjoyable party given by Miss Frances Hillman at her home, 828 North Birch street.

Bunko formed the evening's diversion, and the young hostess displayed great originality in her men's first prize by bestowing a pair of theater tickets to a current attraction at one of the city's theaters. These were secured by Andy Carroll whose score was high, while among the girls, Miss Adelaide Cochems scored and was presented with a pair of daintily fashioned garters. Consolation gifts of amusing little kewpie dolls were presented Miss Mary Banks and Walton Little.

Valentine day offered a decorative motif for the occasion and the card tables, when decked for the appetizing little supper served at a late hour, were pleasantly suggestive of the holiday. In serving, Miss Hillman was assisted by her sister, Miss Blanche Hillman, and the dainties included imperial salad with wafers and cheese straws, coffee, red heart-centered ice cream and cake.

Young people enjoying the evening were the Misses Charlotte Fine, Mary Banks, Agnes Lieberman, Berneice Gohres, Adelaide Cochems and the hostess, Frances Hillman, and Messrs. Bob Heffner, Walton Smith, Frank Brothers, Raymond Burns, Lee Young and Andy Carroll.

The intensity of light from the full moon is approximately 100 times greater than that from all the stars together.

Young Matron Honored At Bridge Evening By Hostess Trio

The pretty home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Lykke at 214 South Flower street, was rendezvous Saturday night for a group of young maids and matrons of the American Legion auxiliary set, gathered to compliment Mrs. Frank Wollaston formerly of this city, but now of Huntington Park.

Mrs. Lykke, president of the auxiliary, Mrs. Ray Glidden and Miss Julia Magill formed the hostess trio and had planned an evening of bridge as entertainment. Tables were arranged amidst a profusion of daffodils and sweet peas and many graceful sprays of cottonseed, still brilliant with its red berries.

At the close of the friendly contest of cards, first prize was presented Mrs. Charles Nussbaumer; second to Miss Henrietta Lykke and consolation to Mrs. Almee Crawford. The gifts were quaint brass candlesticks, imported directly from China by Miss Magill.

Card tables were then arranged with beautiful linens and centered with brass candlesticks holding pink tapers. Dainty pink and blue nut cups were used and individual heart cakes, home-made and artistically decorated in pink by Mrs. Glidden, were served with heart-centered ice cream and coffee.

Asked to enjoy the hospitality of the three hostesses and the opportunity to compliment Mrs. Wollaston were Mesdames Lella Baird, Ruth Crowell, Rowena Fultz, Charlene Utt, Nora McCalla, Elsie Schmiedeburg, Emma Penn, Florence Robinson, Edith Schanle,

Ebell Society

It is with the liveliest anticipations that Ebell members await next Monday's Valentine luncheon in the clubhouse for the general membership, for everyone remembers the initial event just a year ago when Alma Whitaker, author and feature writer on the Los Angeles Times, kept everyone in gales of laughter with one of her inimitable talks.

Mrs. Lloyd A. Chenoweth, chairman of the program committee today stated that the committee was not quite ready to divulge the name of the speaker for this year's feature, but promised that it would be someone who would present quite as entertaining a talk as did Miss Whitaker.

The sixth household economics section will serve the 1 o'clock luncheon at a very nominal price per plate. Reservations for this may be secured by calling the clubhouse, 1773, any forenoon between now and Friday, including the latter date.

See this wash-day miracle right in your own home

We are going to lend you a New Easy and let you see for yourself the amazing way it washes, dries and handles the water—all at the same time.

YOU'LL call it a miracle, too, when you see the New Easy Washer with its two tubs—one tub that washes and another tub that dries—both working at once.

Let us show you next wash-day how quickly, gently, and easily a washing can really be done. You'll see the New Easy wash and dry at the same time. You'll see a batch of clothes as large as 16 double sheets handled at one time—8 sheets washed and 8 damp-dried.

Thorough, but gentle too

Gentle though your own careful hands may be with the clothes, you'll see the clothes washed and damp-dried even more gently in the Easy. You'll see each piece come out spotlessly clean, without a single button torn off. Think of the sewing time saved!

Clothes damp-dry in three minutes

No more do you have to handle wet clothes piece by piece. The dryer handles a whole batch at a time. Just move a lever, and in a jiffy your clothes are so dry they need only a few minutes in the sun. Even the thick hems and heavy seams will not drip water on the floor should you hang the clothes in the house during bad weather.

Blankets, bath towels, etc., come out of the Easy's dryer with a soft fluffiness that will delight you. The nap is fluffed up instead of pressed down. You won't find deep wrinkles in the clothes, either; and you know how much easier that makes the ironing.

"How easy" you'll say

Until you've done a washing with the New Easy you have no idea how easy the task can be. The operation of the washer is simplicity itself—all you do is press a button and move a lever. You'll see the water handled for you by a marvelous new water-circulating system. As the suds, the rinse and the blue water are whisked out of the clothes in the Easy dryer, each in turn flows back to its proper place.

You'll see the water stay hot all through the washing, for underneath the Easy is a special gas heater that can also be used to sterilize white pieces. And when the washing is all done, you'll even see the Easy empty itself down the sink, tub or drain.

Take advantage of this free offer—today

Thousands of women already have opened their eyes in pleased surprise at this remarkable washing machine. Don't wait longer to learn its wonders. Just phone the nearest Easy Dealer, and on your next wash-day the New Easy Washer will be at your home. You don't have to pay anything or promise anything. Should you wish to keep the Easy, all you have to do is make a small down payment and it stays right there for good.

MODEL M

Illustrated at the right is the famous Easy Washer with one-piece aluminum wringer. The hundreds of thousands of these washers in use today have created a permanent demand for this model. We shall continue to make it, embodying the same fine workmanship and materials for which Easy Washers are world-famous.

Ice Cream

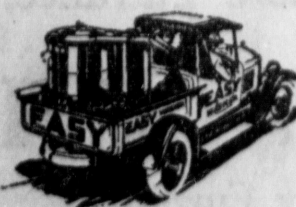

All folks who have lived here during the past decade know that this is true—that is—that there is something in peace of mind that money cannot buy . . . that for many, many years the bulk of the fresh milk supply of this city has always been of the best with a service that challenged criticism.

Our growth, as a result, has been steady and sure. Today the CREAM LINE of Excelsior Creamery Service covers all of Orange County.

Dairies and creameries have come and gone, but the approval of public opinion builds the Excelsior business daily while the company in its appreciation thereof daily strives to improve herds, protect purity of products and hold the service over the top. Patrons of Excelsior do not have to guess or hope that their milk supply is right—THEY KNOW IT.

The Beauty of My Teeth

By Edna Wallace Hopper
I am always smiling, so countless women consider my gleaming teeth the chief item in my beauty.
I have consulted on teeth, as on everything else, the greatest experts I could find. They advised me to brush my teeth with Quindent twice a day.
Quindent is a recent development. Some 69 able experts collaborated on it. It has 46 ingredients, and is made to combine all the major helps in one.
It contains cleansers and polishers of the highest order. Then antacids, antiseptics, iodides and deodorants. They have aimed to combine in Quindent all the best helps known to science.
Quindent is not, an Edna Wallace Hopper product. It is made by Quindent Laboratories, and sold by druggists everywhere. But the makers supply me with samples, and I gladly mail a ten-day tube to anyone who asks.
Send the coupon for it. It will bring you the best tooth paste that men have yet developed. And if it brings to you the gleamy teeth it brings to me, you will always be glad you know it.

HUNDREDS CALL ON JEWELER IN NEW LOCATION

William Lorenz, jeweler, today was receiving the congratulations of friends upon the success of the formal opening, Saturday afternoon, of his new jewelry store at 106 East Fourth street.

Hundreds of Santa Anans called during the afternoon and evening to greet the jeweler and his assistants and to inspect the $25,000 stock of jewelry, the stock having been increased in size and value over that carried when Lorenz was in his smaller quarters, at 306 North Sycamore street.

The opening and enlarging of the store is of interest, as it marks the progress of a man who came here 18 years ago as an apprentice in the jewelry store of E. B. Smith, then located directly across the street from Lorenz' present store location.

Six years ago, Lorenz entered business for himself at 306 North Sycamore street, his enterprise meeting with instant success and his business increasing to the point where it became necessary to secure larger quarters and a greater stock to meet the demands of the growth of the business as indicated in the value of the stock today, compared with $5,000 invested by Lorenz when he initiated his enterprise.

During the reception hours Saturday, 2 to 5 p. m. and 7 to 8 p. m., a trio of instrumentalists presented a program of classical music, the musicians being Alan Revill, piano; Edward Burns, cello; and James McCarty, violin.

One of the special feature displays was an exhibit by the James Appleby company, Los Angeles, containing rare pink and green diamonds, some rings in the display being listed at $5,000 and one bracelet shown being quoted at $18,000.

Dr. F. J. Halber, optometrist, who has offices in the new store, participated in the honors with the jeweler.

Baskets of flowers were sent by various Los Angeles, San Francisco and Santa Ana business houses and individuals, among whom were Gordon H. Otto, A. I. Hall, Charles E. Fisher, Fritz Barken, C. C. Gross, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Wolfson, Edison Adams company, Knox and Kaye, Herbert C. Van Ness, San Francisco; Ludwig Lehmann, New York; I. Behrstock, New York; Spencer Collins, Peter-son's shoe store, Santa Ana lodge, No. 794, B.P.O.E.; Peerless cafeteria, Hoffman jewelry shop, C. P. Kryhl and Son, F. A. Hoag, Nick-ey Hardware company, First National bank, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Kelley and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Ralph.

New Officers to Be Selected by S. A. Plane Club

Members of the Santa Ana Air club will elect officers Wednesday night, to succeed B. E. Morthland, commodore; J. W. Martin Jr., rear commodore; Joseph Skidmore, vice commodore; Borghild L. Stephens, secretary and treasurer.

Notices of the election have been sent to all club members, Mrs. Stephens said.

The club's anniversary dinner, celebrating one year of existence, will be held February 23, instead of February 24, as previously announced.

Leading Merchant Taken by Death

NOGALES, Ariz., Feb. 7.—The funeral party accompanying the body of Theodore Kuhl, 67, president of the Black and Kuhl Dry Goods company, of Peoria, Ill., left here today for the eastern city, where Kuhl will be buried Friday.

Kuhl, who has been spending the winter on the Circle Z guest ranch, near here, died in a local hospital, Saturday night following a stroke of paralysis.

The body will be accompanied by his brother, George A. Kuhl, and a daughter, Mrs. L. Fay Tyler, of Bay City, Mich.

Kuhl was a member of the National Dry Goods association and for many years acted in an executive capacity, with Bylack and Kuhl, one of the largest department stores in Illinois, outside of Chicago.

ADAMS REFUSED BOUT

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7.—No opponent has yet been found for Ace Hudkins for his 10-round go at the Olympic auditorium, February 15. Hudkins was originally scheduled to face Johnny Adams, San Bernardino "mountain lion," but Seth Strelinger, state athletic commissioner, turned "thumbs down" on that encounter.

DRIVE AGAINST GOATS

HAWAII NATIONAL PARK, Feb. 7.—A goat drive culminating in an abandoned Hawaiian village ridded the Puna and Kau forests of 2500 goats and furnished meat for native huns or feasts. The goats were distributed among the Hawaiians with the stipulation that they be killed within a given period.

The drive was organized by the forest service and neighboring ranchmen.

NEW BOOKS IN PUBLIC LIBRARY

East of the Sun and West of the Moon

In childhood days, one read a fairy tale entitled East of the Sun and West of the Moon and now there is another tale of the same name, which is more interesting and breath-taking than any fairy tale ever written. This new story is the recounting, by Theodore and Kermit Roosevelt, of their adventures on their recent expedition into Central Asia.

The story is written in a fascinating manner and is filled with humorous incidents, which bring a picture of the natives of Central Asia before the reader in an amazingly concise manner. The fact that the expedition was organized for the purpose of hunting unknown animals in that little explored section of the world has attracted the interest of hundreds of Americans who have in them the same pioneering spirit which sent the Roosevelt brothers forth in search of new lands and new life.

Ranching With Roosevelt
Presenting an unusual picture of Roosevelt is Ranching with Roosevelt, by Lincoln A. Lang. Lang was a neighbor of Roosevelt when the latter owned ranches in the Missouri Bad Lands. Lang has used this as the basis for a character sketch of that great man, which shows the least known side of Roosevelt. The book tells, in an entertaining manner, of the trials which were overcome by Roosevelt in the development of his ranch.

In the same story, Lang takes advantage of the opportunity offered for a general review of the pioneering period of which he writes. The book should prove valuable to any one interested in making a study of that period of American history, according to Miss Jeanette McFadden, city librarian.

Travel and Adventures in Many Lands

Few men are as fitted to write of strange adventure as is Cecil Cosling, Englishman. During his youth, he was constantly traveling from one country to another and, after he had attained his majority, he became his majesty's envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary in Bolivia. In Travel and Adventure in Strange Lands one finds the story of Cosling's life, which truly has been filled with adventure.

In the early part of the book is told the interesting customs of lands where he has lived. One chapter is devoted to Spain, under the heading, "Bull Fighting," and another tells of Russia, under the title, "Episodes in Russia." The latter part of the book has to do with his life in Central and South America, where he lived for many years. Much of interest in relation to the Latin-American countries is found in the book. There also is the story of a near revolution.

Transatlantic Travelers

Filled with intimate pictures of world famous personages, including Harry Lauder, William Randolph Hearst, Lady Astor, President Roosevelt, Archduke Ferdinand and Caruso, is the new book by Charles T. Spedding, for many years purser on the Aquitania. Spedding is a descendant of the brother of the James Spedding who was an officer on the Mayflower when it made its trip to America, bearing the first white settlers to New England.

In his capacity as purser on the Aquitania, Spedding had excellent opportunity to meet and observe internationally known men and women. It is thus that he has found material for one of the most interesting of the new non-fiction books.

Cortes, the Conqueror

Another book has been published on one of the most fascinating phases of early American history, that of the conquering of Mexico by that intrepid Spanish adventurer, Hernandez Cortes. In this story one is given a slightly different viewpoint regarding the sacking of the City of Mexico and the massacre of its inhabitants.

One feels that the author, Henry Dwight Sedgewick, has studied the customs of that time and has succeeded in presenting a true picture of Mexico and its people during the reign of Montezuma, greatest of Aztec emperors.

CONGRESS GOES OVER ESTIMATE IN ITS SPENDING

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—After having economized closely for the last few years, congress is now going on a little spending spree.

A tabulation of appropriation bills, made by the United Press, showed congress has gone $1,187,841 over budget estimates in providing funds for the army and navy, state, justice, commerce, labor and agriculture departments.

Through dint of early stringent saving, the total of all appropriations planned for next year is $2,449,992 under the budget estimates—largely because $3,269,150 was lopped off the treasury department appropriation bill.

All of the regular bills either have been passed or are on their way toward final adoption. Congress has gone over the budget estimates in the following cases:

State, justice, commerce and labor departments, $480,810; war department, $224,856; navy, $102,959; agriculture, $296,716 and the first deficiency bill, $82,500.

Congress has cut the budget estimates as follows:

Congressional departments, $46,541; District of Columbia, $109,623; independent offices, $60,833; interior department, $1,151,686, and treasury and post-office departments, $3,269,150.

These big slashes were made early in the session, before the rivers and harbors bill was passed and before expectations of tax

Tilden Loafs, Loses to College Star

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7.—Determined playing of Cranston Holman, Stanford university star, and the indifferent attitude of his famous opponent, enabled Holman to defeat "Big Bill" Tilden, 6-2, 6-3 in an exhibition tennis match on the Hotel Ambassador courts yesterday.

Tilden appeared more concerned with amusing the crowds by an exotic assortment of shots than with winning.

In all, congress has slashed $4,637,833 from the budget estimates and added $1,877,841, leaving it a favorable balance of $3,449,992. This, however, is not as great as in previous years and there are possibilities that the balance will be still further reduced.

It is expected that all the measures except the second deficiency bill, which has not yet been framed will pass both houses by the end of this week.

Muller's Gridders Beat Grange, 7-6

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 7.—Brick Muller's Californians defeated "Red" Grange's New York Yankees here yesterday, 7 to 6, on a sloppy football field.

Grange's team scored in the first period after Ernie Nevers' fumble. A final period drive led by "Tut" Imlay and Nevers, put over the Californian touchdown. Nevers converted for the winning point.

THREE CARS TAKEN, TWO OTHERS FOUND

Three automobiles were reported stolen in Santa Ana over the week end, and two cars, previously reported stolen, were recovered, according to records at the sheriff's office and at the police station today.

A car registered to Helen Decker, 410 South Broadway, was stolen Saturday night from a place where it was parked on Sixth street, between Birch street and Broadway, according to one report.

C. D. Taylor, Main and Clay street, a suitcase filled with clothing the theft of his machine here, last night.

N. W. Waldrup, 1515 West Second street, reported the theft of his automobile, Saturday night, from a place near 418 East Third street. A suitcase filled with clothing was in the car at the time, he told police.

Descriptions of all of the machines were given officers.

A machine registered to H. J. Guffins, 752 Lake street, Los Angeles, was found abandoned at Fourth and Hathaway streets, yesterday, by Officer Perry. The owner of the car was notified by telephone and will be here for it today.

A machine, reported by the Jack Mabey company, automobile dealers, as stolen several days ago, was found near 1428 North Broadway, yesterday, after a woman had notified police that the car had been standing in front of her home for several hours.

COMMUNITY OF MODEL HOMES IN SANTA ANA GETS APPROVAL

Would Be Big Help to Small Wage-earners, in Opinion of Dr. Aronovici

ROTATING FUND WOULD BE NEEDED

Junior Chamber to Consider Plan As Means of Aiding Prospective Homeowners

A suggestion recently considered by the board of directors of the Santa Ana Junior Chamber of Commerce, concerning the proposed construction of a group of model homes in Santa Ana, has received the earnest consideration of Dr. Carol Aronovici, city planning consultant, and while the planning expert does not agree, in every particular, with the tentative plans of the junior chamber, he has given them his general approval, he said today.

The junior chamber directors had been urged to consider, either for themselves or as a scheme to be worked out with the co-operation of other Santa Ana civic organizations, the construction of the model community as a special means of acquainting newcomers to Orange county with just what can be expected in the way of homes, as regards price, quality of material and other questions that naturally arise in the minds of prospective homeowners. It was also suggested that, when the county motor bus excursions begin operation, bringing thousands of tourists to Orange county from Los Angeles, the stop in Santa Ana be made at the model community to permit inspection of the fine homes.

Dr. Aronovici did not touch on these phases of the proposal in his discussion of the plans, but confined himself to a general expression of opinion as regards the feasibility of the entire scheme. The following was his comment:

"The problem of housing the wage earners in California is becoming more and more acute, particularly from the point of view of providing accommodations for persons with a small income who have reasonably good taste and who desire to occupy homes that represent their individuality.

"Most of the eastern cities and the cities of the west have had to face this problem in their own way, but in California nothing has been done beyond the ordinary speculative building enterprises which, although not devoid of real merit, do not represent the type of dwelling that would be recommended as of high standard and

Motorist Is Held On Five Charges

When Jack Shapiro, 23, peddler, of 4370 Van Dyck street, San Diego, is brought into Justice Kenneth Morrison's court, probably today, he is scheduled to hear more charges read to him than any one man has heard in several months.

Shapiro was arrested yesterday afternoon by Officers Mozley, Hurd and McKague, of the sheriff's office, who booked him in the jail on charges of violating sections 113, 126, 148, 150 and 153 of the state motor vehicle laws. The charges have to do with speeding, reckless driving, failure to heed siren, failure to give right-of-way and operating a machine without a driver's license, officers said.

CAFE MAN NABBED ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Charged with possession of intoxicating liquor, Lupe Romos, 24, Los Alamitos restaurant man, was arrested at 4 p. m., Saturday, after D. D. Adams and Jack Roberts, deputy sheriffs, are alleged to have found a quantity of liquor in the rear of the restaurant.

According to officers, 24 pints of whiskey were concealed in paper sacks, under a counter, at the rear of the place.

The restaurant formerly was occupied by Fernando Ochoa, one-armed Mexican, who had been arrested several times by officers on liquor charges during the last two years.

Romos is scheduled to be given a hearing before Justice Kenneth Morrison today.

MISSIONARY TO TURKEY TELLS OF HIS ARREST

Pastor, Visiting in S. A.,
Describes Stirring War
Days in Ottoman Empire

Memories of the stirring events which led to the World war, of the machinations of German military machine, which made the Ottoman empire ally of the Central powers, of the circumstances which caused the sultan to declare the "jihad," or Mohammedan Holy war, are recalled here, with the visit to this city of the Rev. J. S. Stewart, for 30 years connected with the Reformed Presbyterian mission in northern Syria.

Dr. Stewart, for 14 months a political prisoner in a Turkish concentration camp, retired from his missionary activities in 1922. He now is visiting his sister, Mrs. Scott B. McClellan, 508 West First street, Santa Ana. Since leaving the Near East, Dr. and Mrs. Stewart have been making their home in Pennsylvania. He is an accomplished linguist, a noted educator, and a distinguished theologian. He has contributed a number of articles to magazines on social and economic conditions in the Near East.

Arrested As Spy
It was during October, in 1917, while stationed at the little seaport of Latakia, located on the Syrian coast opposite the island of Cyprus, that on a certain night, he was arrested by the Turkish military police as a spy, and taken by a military guard to Konia for detention. The latter place, a walled city, lies on the Haimaneh plateau, in the center of Asiatic Turkey.

At the time of his arrest, he served as American consular representative, in which capacity he also looked after the interests of British. As soon as Turkey entered the war, all Britishers, including diplomatic and consular officials, missionaries, and business representatives, were required to leave Turkish territory. Later on, when the United States entered the conflict as an ally of the Allied powers, and broke off diplomatic relations with Constantinople government without declaring war, American diplomatic and consular officials were withdrawn from the Ottoman empire. American missionaries had the choice of either remaining at their stations, or of returning to the United States. Dr. and Mrs. Stewart elected to remain. It was then that Ambassador Henry Morgenthau appointed Stewart as special consular representative of the United States.

No Formal Charge
According to his own version of the incident, Dr. Stewart was accused of communicating with the enemy, that is with the warships of the Allied powers, which, maintaining a blockade of the Syrian coast, were constantly patrolling the waters of the mainland. Such communication, the Turkish officers asserted, was effected by means of radio and the use of signal lights. A thorough search was made of the mission premises by the military police. Although there were will-

DENTISTS REVEAL SECRET EAT ALFALFA AND ERASE THAT DANGER LINE OF HOW TO GROW STRONG TEETH

Here's the latest inside information on what to eat and when to eat it.

If you want to go through life without resorting to the kind of teeth that come out at night, by all means eat alfalfa.

Alfalfa salads, with mayonnaise dressing, alfalfa pudding and every other dish that American ingenuity can make of what was once horse and cow food, will become a regular part of the family menu if the American Dental association has its way. Press dispatches to the Register recently carried this choice morsel of news.

If horses can thrive on alfalfa, why not men?

Southern Californians are especially fortunate if this new food edict is to be carried into effect. A short drive into the country and no one need starve to death.

It is suggested that some enterprising farmer pack the latest boon to the American stomach in cereal size boxes and put it on the market with "99 and one fourth per cent pure" for a slogan.

ROY BISHOP AGAIN ELECTED FARM BUREAU PRESIDENT, AS ANNUAL VOTE IS TABULATED

Roy K. Bishop, of Orange, again will head the Orange County Farm bureau as the result of the election held last week, the results of which have just been tabulated, Secretary A. M. Stanley said today. John Osterman, of El Toro, was elected vice-president; S. W. Stanley, Tustin, treasurer, and A. M. Stanley, Santa Ana, secretary-manager. E. E. Campbell, Orange, was elected to succeed himself as a director of the California Farm Bureau federation and also to represent the bureau on the board of directors of the Orange County Fair association. The president and secretary were elected delegates to the Associated Chambers of Commerce.

The annual reports of committee and divisional heads, Stanley said, showed that the citrus department had held 48 meetings, with an attendance of more than 4000 persons. The poultry department was close second, with 41 meetings, and an attendance of 3900. All of the eight departments of the bureau have been very active during the year and have accomplished a great deal of good Secretary Stanley said.

Programs Carried Out
The water conservation committee had a bill introduced for the purpose of clarifying the situation in regard to the use of water. The walnut department is planning for an annual institute, to be held in Tustin on March 5, and the pepper growers' department succeeded in getting most of the ground disced, in an effort to eradicate the pepper weevil. This department has secured an appropriation of $5000 to be used in control measures, but has found it necessary to have a bill introduced in the legislature to legalize this expenditure. The farm bureau got behind this bill and authorized the legislative committee to assist the pepper growers in securing legislation.

One of the outstanding reports of the meeting was the seven-page typewritten message of the agricultural education committee. In this report, the committee suggested an educational program, after an apparent exhaustive study of the situation. The committee was complimented on its work and authorized to continue its efforts to secure the adoption of the program by the high schools.

Actual Cash Deficit
The financial condition of the farm bureau was shown by the report of the auditor and, according to this report, the bureau has a book gain of $1235, but an actual cash deficit of $641.49.

It was stated that the U. S. weather bureau was assisting the farm bureau in making the orchard heating survey, which will determine the number of acres heated and the value of the products saved. The work of this department was commenced in a letter directed to Charles F. Mann, chief of the weather bureau, at Washington, which also contained the request that he return the same men to this territory in the future. This request was made on the as-

Sherlock Holmes Has Nothing on Postal Employees

Uncle Sam's post-office men apparently can give Sherlock Holmes cards and spades and beat him at his own game, so expert are they in unravelling a mystery, if the recent experience of Mrs. Herbert M. Sammis, of this city, may be taken as an example.

A few days ago, Mrs. Sammis received a letter from friends in China, addressed to "Mrs. H. M. Sammis, 215 East Washington avenue, California."

There seemed to have been no unusual delay in its delivery and the sole indication that it presented any problem at all to the post-office employees was the single notation from the San Francisco office, "Try Santa Ana." Why Santa Ana should have been suggested rather than any one of scores of California cities and villages that boast a Washington avenue was not explained.

The suggestion was made, that was all, and the letter delivered according to schedule, quite as promptly as though "Santa Ana" had been enclosed on the envelope in scarlet letters.

THREE NEW BOY SCOUT PATROLS ARE ORGANIZED

Intensive activity will mark the second session of the training school for scoutmasters and committeemen, to be held at 6:30 p. m. in the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A. Last Monday the training school was opened with an enrollment of 25 and 12 additional men have enrolled since that time. The first session was spent in organization of the school and discussing procedure and policy.

Three patrols were organized, with C. I. Thomas, of Orange, as leader of one patrol; Ben Carey of Fullerton, of the second patrol, and Kenneth Peck, of Anaheim, as leader of the third patrol. Thomas' group will specialize in archery and Carey's patrol in hikecraft. Peck's boys will be the leather workers in the troop. Each patrol will specialize in its craft and be responsible for the training of the entire troop in that subject.

In addition to the craftwork of the patrols, several methods of teaching the Tenderfoot requirements will be outlined.

Alleged Holdup Man Arraigned

Henry L. Brown, Costa Mesa man, arrested Friday in Long Beach on a charge of highway robbery, in connection with the holdup of the G. W. Moore service station, Westminster, was arraigned Saturday in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court and preliminary examination set for February 10, at 10 a. m.

Bail was set at $3000, which Brown was unable to make. He is being held in the county jail. Moore caused Brown's arrest when he followed the car, said to have been occupied by the hold-up man, from his service station to Long Beach, where he called officers.

The bandit obtained $10 in cash at the Moore place after stopping his machine, making a small purchase and then holding up the proprietor with a pistol.

26 Chickens Are Reported Stolen

Twenty-six chickens were stolen from the place of H. Johnson, Olive, Saturday night, according to a report filed with the sheriff's office.

Twelve of the chickens were of the barred rock variety and 12 were Rhode island reds. Sheriff's officers are of the opinion, they said, that the thief is the same who has been robbing chicken yards in Orange county almost every night during the last 10 days.

Grandmother Knew

there was nothing so good for congestion and colds as mustard. But the old-fashioned mustard plaster burned and blistered.

Musterole gives the relief and help that mustard plasters gave, without the plaster and without the blister. It is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. Gently rub it in. See how quickly the pain disappears.

Try Musterole for sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frost-bite, colds of the chest (it may prevent pneumonia).

At the first sign of a cold in the head take Musterole Cold Tablets. They usually give prompt relief.

LAST WORD FOR PHIL GOODWIN TO BE SPOKEN NEXT MARCH 8

Oral Argument of Priest's Appeal Will Be Heard by State's Highest Tribunal

FINAL RESORT FOR DIMINUTIVE CLERIC

Governor Unable to Grant
Pardon Without Consent
Of Majority of Justices

The last word in the court of last resort will be spoken for Phil Goodwin next March 8.

Barely a month hence, the priest, condemned to die for the slaying of Joseph J. Patterson, will be represented before the California supreme court at oral argument on the appeal of his case.

Solemn magistrates of the highest tribunal in the commonwealth will hear counsel for the diminutive dominie plead for his life, against the demand of the state's attorney-general that the verdict of a jury be upheld.

Briefs of the case will have been filed by that date and the supreme court's decision is expected within a short time after the oral argument is delivered.

Court of Last Resort
While the governor's power of pardon stands before the supreme court, that court nevertheless is the court of last resort in more than one sense. For the governor, it is stated, could not grant a pardon to Goodwin without consent of a majority of the supreme court justices. That is because the priest had been, before his murder conviction, found guilty of a felony. He had served a sentence in the Utah penitentiary for grand larceny. The California law, it is said, provides that the governor may not pardon a two-time felon without a majority of the supreme court justices assent.

It was in the Utah prison that Goodwin met Albert Dewey Gaines, in whose company he was said to have been at the time of the Patterson murder, in Santa Ana canyon. It was Gaines whose testimony fastened the guilt for the Patterson murder upon Goodwin. Gaines now is in the Orange county jail, awaiting trial, himself, for the same murder.

Vincent Surr Prepares Brief
Vincent Surr, of the London-San Francisco law firm, Cormack, Bolles and Surr, is expected to deliver the oral argument for Goodwin before the supreme court. Surr, whose firm is counsel for British Consulate-General Campbell, in San Francisco, prepared the defense brief which was filed with the court. The office of Attorney-General U. S. Webb, of California, has the duty of opposing the appeal.

The new date for oral argument was announced here today. Previously, according to announcement by Kitt Gould, counsel for Goodwin at the time of the priest's trial, it had been planned for the first of this month.

It was predicted here today that the supreme court decision in the Goodwin case will be handed down at about the time the priest's co-defendant, Gaines, goes on trial for the same crime. Gaines' trial is set for March 24, although District Attorney Z. B. West Jr., stated several weeks ago that he had not yet made definite decision as to whether Gaines would be tried.

Something new and something better in balloons

You know the stubborn road-grip and hang-on that made Goodyear All-Weather Tread world famous.

You can now have that sure-footedness and safety joined to the great comfort of the modern balloon tire.

You can have it with new quiet and smooth-running designed into it, together with even, slower, longer wear.

You can have it in a tire which keeps going without showing the wavy spots or "pot holes" until now characteristic of wear in many balloon tires.

All these benefits are possible to you through

Goodyear's development and perfection of a new-type balloon tire tread. Traction is achieved by placing the sharp-edged, diamond-shaped All-Weather blocks in the tread's center; improved tread wear, by a new flat design and two heavy circumferential ribs at the points of greatest wear. The tire is even better looking, and the new tread is as clearly superior as the renowned Goodyear SUPERTWIST carcass has proved itself to be.

You will want this smooth, safe, sturdy Goodyear for the same sensible reasons that for years have made "more people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind."

MODEL HOMES IN SANTA ANA ARE APPROVED

easily within the reach of a low income family.
"From time to time efforts have been made to raise funds of from $20,000 to $30,000, with a view to developing small groups of attractive and well-planned houses which could be acquired on a long-time payment basis, and which would be sufficiently solidly built to continue to be useful and of high standard over a long period of years. These funds of from $20,000 to $30,000 are used as rotating funds with which to build additional homes on particular tracts. In larger cities such as Philadelphia, the Octavia Hill association has succeeded in building a number of such homes, and in rehabilitating a considerable number of old dwellings. This organization now has an investment of practically one million dollars, paying to the investor a net interest of 4 per cent, and at the same time rendering a real service to the community.
Lack of Small Homes
"In Santa Ana, while there are a number of splendid dwellings, there is a lack of small homes such as have been described above, homes that would cost in the aggregate, including land and buildings, between $3800 and $4500, and which would be models of planning from the point of view of appearance and convenience. A tract of land of an acre could be easily subdivided to meet this need, and if the houses were planned harmoniously and if they were built at the same time, the non-creative investment would be reduced to such a minimum as to give the purchaser large benefits at a very reasonable rate. The chamber of commerce, women's clubs, the Junior chamber of commerce, or any other organization of similar character, or a group of organizations, could easily secure from the citizens of the community ample funds for such an enterprise. This is made particularly easy in view of the fact that the investment brings at least a small return."

SEVEN ARRESTED ON DRUNK CHARGES

Seven persons were arrested over the week end on charges of being drunk, according to records at the county jail. Five were arrested by Santa Ana police officers and two by deputy sheriffs. Lottie Webb, 24, 815 Hooper street, Los Angeles, negro, and Arthur Hester, 38, 921 Twelfth street, Los Angeles, negro, were arrested yesterday by Officers Dean and Perry. Officers Howard and Perry arrested a Mexican, who, they claim, was so drunk that jailers were unable to book him. Louis Martinez, of Santa Ana, was arrested by Officers Perry and Dean, yesterday morning. Deputy Sheriffs Adams and McKague arrested A. Cardova, 28, 1018 Logan street, on a drunk charge, yesterday at Seventeenth street and the Garden Grove road intersection. Officers Dixon and Perry arrested Joe Newman, 48, 630 Garfield street, Santa Ana, last night. Joe Miranda, 20, Pasadena, was arrested last night, on a charge of being drunk, by Jack Cobb, deputy sheriff. All were placed in the county jail and will be given hearings before Judge Kenneth Morrison or Police Judge J. F. Talbot, today.

Pin Only Article Reported Stolen In 3 Burglaries

In three burglaries reported to Santa Ana police yesterday, a $10 scarf pin was the only article of value reported stolen.
A thief, who broke into the home of R. E. Smith, 802 East Sixth street, after jimmying a bedroom window, ransacked the house and took a stickpin, valued at $10, according to a report filed last night with officers. The burglary was committed while members of the family were away from home, between 6:30 and 9:30 p. m.
Several candy bars were taken from the Cope Service station, Fourth and Grand avenue, Saturday night, after a thief had thrown a hammer through a plate glass window to gain entrance. Police attribute the burglary to a small boy, seen loitering about the place.
Nothing was reported stolen from the home of L. H. Clark, 801 Olive street, although the house was entered Saturday night while members of the family were away. Entrance was made with the use of a passkey in the front door. A man's footprints were found in all the rooms.

DRAMA, PATHOS, FUN IN SHOW AT WALKER

Fanchon-Marco Golf 'Idea' Vies with Picture for Top of Fine Bill

By REVIEWER
"The Show," now playing at the West-Coast-Walker theater, is a masterpiece of the thriller-maker's art. While John Gilbert as a character out of the underworld and Renee Adoree as the girl who loves him and through her devotion brings down on his head the murderous jealousy of their world's most ferocious character, it bristles with romance and adventure that makes the nerves of the audience tingle.
Gilbert and Adoree each give a remarkable performance and are supported by a capable cast. Tod Browning, its director, makes a notable addition to his gallery of crook pictures.
The plot is laid in Vienna against the background of a sideshow. As the vain, daredevil fellow who laughs at love and honor, then awakens to a better nature through the faithfulness of a girl, Gilbert gives a true portrayal of a difficult but fascinating role. Here is drama, pathos and adventure of a high order.
Fanchon and Marco, those indefatigable two, offer a Golf "Idea" this week and whether or not you are a tee bound you'll thoroughly enjoy it. The principals in this "Idea" are Warner and Meade, 600 pounds of harmony and fun; Sylvia and Leontine, in the good old fashioned waltz which is charmingly different; Fritz and Jean Hubert, the "original drunk dancers," who almost stop the show; Billy Snyder who impersonates Eddie Lambert's Cinderella recitation; Gwen Evans, who sings "blues" in a red hot way. Then there are the Lads and Lassies. Brilliant music, gorgeous costumes and many humorous kinks are combined to form an entertaining program.

YOST BROADWAY THEATER

The Pola Negri of "Passion" has returned. She again reaches the pinnacle of film genius in "Hotel Imperial," her newest starring vehicle which opened yesterday at the Yost Broadway theater.
The picture is a war drama of a new type, a dynamic story of tremendous climaxes that deals with human beings and their reactions to conflict, rather than armies on the battlefield. It hurries the spectator into the midst of that little known episode of the World War, the Russian invasion of Hungary in 1915, takes one abruptly into a gripping drama and unfolds with never a moment's lessening of tension.
Towering over all is a vivid, pulsating personality. The sweeping power of Miss Negri's characterization as a humble chambermaid, whose love made the fate of armies tremble in the balance, is breath-taking.
The vaudeville bill includes three entertaining acts. Shirley and Grant are billed as the world's fastest dancers. Johnny Downs, the "All-American boy," is one of that delightful bunch of youthful screen players known as "Our Gang." Then there is Jack Norton and company from the Orpheum who give an amusing sketch entitled "Brother Bill."
A comedy, "Happy Days," and a novelty reel, "We Must Be Thrilled," make up the balance of the show.

MURPHY'S COMEDIANS
"The Love Test," now playing at Murphy's Orana theater, is a rural comedy drama in three acts and one of the acts is in two scenes. It was successfully produced in the centers of the country a few years ago, and since then has been rewritten and is again playing on New York's Broadway, at the present time, under a different name.

sumption that these men are better acquainted with the "cold pockets and warm spots" of the county and would therefore be more efficient.
Farm Advisor Report
The report of the farm advisor and his assistants showed that they had held 24 meetings during the month, with an attendance of more than 2400, and in addition had made 104 farm visits. The extension service is conducting production efficiency records on a large number of orchards in this county and it was stated that 43 different crops were being similarly studied throughout the state. Club work has received new impetus and 50 members have been enrolled through the efforts of project leaders. It was learned that 34 poultrymen also are making the efficiency study and that the farm bureau was maintaining well measurements to determine water levels throughout the county.
The secretary was authorized to issue new membership signs free of charge, to replace those that were faded out by the weather. He also was requested to secure sample copies of the "News Letter" for distribution at the farm centers. The News Letter is published by the American Farm Bureau federation and gives the national viewpoint of agriculture.
L. B. Smith, assistant state leader of farm advisors gave a short address showing the value of sustained effort. He outlined the projects for 1927, expressing the interest that is being shown throughout the state in this work.

TWO MEN, WOMEN DRAW HEAVY FINES

A man, his wife and his brother were fined in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court early today on charges of being drunk and disturbing the peace at a service station, one mile north of San Juan Capistrano, late yesterday.
Mrs. Rosa Lee Troglin was fined $20; her husband, Roy Troglin, was fined $50, and the third man, C. F. Troglin, $30, when the three pleaded guilty to the charges.
The trio was arrested by Officers Barnhill and Sawyer, after an alleged fight, when the men attempted to force the woman into an automobile, Sawyer said.
Morrison learned today, he said, that there were two children and another woman in the machine. They were not held by officers.

Fine To Be Paid In Installments

B. Cornejo, 32, of Orange, fined $150 in Judge Ingle's court, Orange, this morning, on a possession charge, will be able to pay the fine in installments, the judge deciding to allow the man to make a $50 down payment, with the remainder to be paid over a period of two months.
It was alleged that Cornejo had three quarters of a gallon of liquor in his possession when arrested.
Jose Perrez, 22, of Fullerton, was fined $25 on a possession charge when he appeared before Judge Ingle. Perrez had a small bottle of liquor, according to officers.
Oren Livesey, of 263 South Olive street, Orange, reported to Orange police today that a thief had stolen a suit of clothes and practically all of his shirts, socks and collars.

SOVIET WORKER FINDS SALOON REFUGE PLACE

PARIS, Feb. 5.—"Once you pass by the station which formerly was called Nicholas Station you are in the suburbs of Moscow," writes Fleury in a dispatch to L'Echo de Paris.

"The winter night fell on Moscow some hours ago, and yet the snow kept a sort of light which resembled daylight in the streets, while the few lanterns put only scanty red-gleaming points in the half darkness.

22 Degrees Below Zero

It was freezing cold. The giant thermometer on the Square of the Revolution showed 22 degrees below zero. Sleights with heavy peasant horses pulling them passed by now and then. A heavy form ran along a wall—a workman who was about to go and get a drink of vodka.

"This desolate aspect of the streets of Moscow chills a visitor more than does the Russian winter night. Between the heart of Moscow the Marshal's bridge, with its brilliant shops, its motor buses, its two or three comfortable hotels, its residential homes of the new rich—between these comforts for the upper class of the soviet empire, and then, on the other hand, the few and dark suburbs, there is the same difference as in London between Piccadilly and the East End.

Rubbish Lies in Corners
"Pass over the threshold of any one of these houses. A single lantern light the staircase. Rubbish is lying about in the corners of the staircase; a layer of ice or blotches of snow make the steps slippery; the railing is loose and broken at certain places.

"Let us knock at any door. This four-room apartment, where formerly a worker's family used to live, is now divided, according to the new housing laws. Sixteen square 'archins' (six square yards) per person. The former occupants have kept one room; newcomers are in the three others. These fifteen or twenty persons have but one washroom, one kitchen and one pantry. Imagine that sort of life throughout six long winter months.

"Yet this national slavery which is called 'housing regulation' does not solve the lodging problem. Thousands of workers sleep in the factory dormitories, where they have a right to eight hours of sleep in a bed which they share in turns with two other comrades." Offer 'Uplift' Excuses

"They have no other lodging. As soon as their sleeping term is over they do their eight hours of work and then wander about in the city or sit at the saloon or in the club. For, putting aside all anti or pro-revolutionary prose, one must admit that a worker in soviet Russia works as much, if not more, than his comrades in other countries; that the economic conditions and the purchase power of money are such that the Russian workers get only 30 or 35 per cent of the wages workers get in western countries; that the state of civilization of the Russian people, the lack of means of transportation, the housing shortage, etc., make any other distraction than the saloon of the soviet club impossible.

'Bullfights' Are Held In Newark Without Arrests

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 7.—A Spanish colony, near the Passaic river, holds weekly bullfights. The "beast" has a leather hide, real horns, glass eyes, and wimmin. Mounted on rollers with wires connecting to a switchboard, where electrical controls are located, it dodges from side to side, charges and retreats, with the head, mounted on springs, shaking as it in anger.

If the matador can plunge his sword into the "animal" to strike the heart of a live bull, a bell rings and he has won; but he must kill in three minutes or leave the stage in disgrace. Bright mantillas adorned several of the women in the crowd of 250 Spanish and Portuguese at last night's "fight." As the strains of the Toreador song died down, two banderilleros entered, clad in short jackets of satin, embroidered in gold and silver, silk breeches and stockings. Waving red cloths they excited the bull and retired in favor of the picador.

The picador was clad in bright yellow, and on foot. Producing the animal with his lance to infuriate it, he vanished at the call of the bugle announcing the toreador, marching down the center aisle to a thundering applause, the hero drew his sword, saluted dignitaries in the boxes and the fight was on. Sawdust from several "wounds" was spilled during the first minute of lunging and prancing and charging. At the end of the second minute the bell rang. Hats, lunch baskets and flowers were thrown into the ring, and many spectators rushed to embrace the victor.

One toreador failed to win in another fight and was hissed from the stage.

AIR SERVICE BEGINS
VIENNA, Feb. 7.—A regular air passenger and mail service between Vienna and Rome has been inaugurated. The journey takes only six hours, including a stop at Venice. This is an extension of a line already in operation out of Vienna.

GENERAL ROAD CONDITIONS

By Touring Department of National Automobile Club

Neither the Williams-Grand Canyon road near the Maine-Grand Canyon road is advisable at the present time. Following are late road conditions over the National Old Trails road through Arizona: Ash Fork to Williams, 20 miles, graded highway, good; to Main, 15 miles, graded highway, in very good condition; to Flagstaff, 19 miles, excellent; to Winslow, 64 miles, fair to good; to Holbrook, 35 miles, fair to good; to St. Johns, 67 miles, good, graded and graded highway; to Springerville, 31 miles, very good graded highway; Holbrook to Gallup, N. M., fair to good.

The road from Indio to six miles south of Coachella, a total of nine miles is still under construction. Widening and resurfacing operations are in progress. Motorists should drive slowly and carefully as there is only sufficient room for two cars to pass on this road.

The route to Lake Cuyamaca via Ramona and Julian is not advisable at this time. The route via Descanso is advisable during the winter months. It is passable and fair although corduroy in spots.

On the road between Lakeside and El Cajon, at a point about four miles beyond Lakeside, a large watermain is being installed, and one-way traffic obtains in some places. Careful driving is advisable over a four-mile stretch.

The road between Brawley and El Centro is now paved and the only detour is around one bridge, and that will be in use in the near future.

Construction work is in progress on the entire length of the Mountain Springs grade. The slides which were caused by recent storms have been removed for the most part, but remains of them make narrow driving in several places and one-way traffic obtains at one or two points. At the end of the grade, pavement will be found for only about 200 feet. The recent storms changed the current of Myers creek and two miles of pavement were undermined and must be rebuilt. The temporary road now lies in the dry creek bed. By remaining in the ruts, motorists will experience no trouble. The state highway crews are now grading and oiling a temporary road bed, but this is not yet open to motorists.

From a point four miles west of Yuma into the city, grading is in progress, but does not retard traffic. Between Yuma and Wellton, the road is somewhat rough; to Sentinel, fair graded highway; to Hassayampa, good graded highway; to Phoenix, 44 miles of pavement.

Between Carpinteria and Ventura, on the Coast route to San Francisco repairs are still in progress. There are two short stretches of one-way traffic which are controlled. Motorists should drive slowly and carefully.

UPPER CLASSES AMONG SYRIANS OPPOSE FRENCH

BAGDAD, Feb. 7.—The report of the League of Nations commission upon the state of Syria states that the opposition to the French mandate in Syria has been chiefly due to an influential section of the upper classes, who feared that any European intervention would deprive them of their ancient privileges, and so wished to maintain the social and economic relations unchanged.

The report goes on to say that, in wide tracts of the country, especially in the rural districts of Syria and the Jebel Druze, the masses of the people are economically in a state of dependence on the great landed proprietors or subject to the traditional despotism exercised by the chiefs.

Power of Oriental Traditions
That is probably true, but if there is any excuse for the establishment of mandates against the will of the various races in the east, all Asia might as well be cut up into mandates at once. For, as the report remarks, the mandatory system in Syria has encountered the whole resisting power of Oriental traditionalism. And we know the fate of the man who tries to hustle the east.

Especially will that fate attend anyone who tries to hustle the Druzes. These remarkable people are the most conservative race on earth. For nearly a thousand years they have held themselves a distinct and definitely superior people. They are scattered over Syria, but have always maintained their central stronghold in the Jebel Druze, or Mountain of the Druzes, which extends over the southern part of the Anti-Lebanon and southeast of Mount Hermon.

Fidelity to Secret Religion
Their race is really "The Old Man of the Mountain," and it is bound together by an unflinching fidelity to their secret religion and a firm resolve to die one by one rather than surrender their freedom or their ancestral customs. If they appear to accept another religion, such as Islam, it is only a superficial acceptance; for underneath still remains the abiding faith in the religion of which no one except themselves has much knowledge. If they were included in the Turkish empire the subject was only nominal, and they remained quiet only when left alone.

In 1860 they came into collision with the Maronite Christians, always a powerful body in Syria, and terrible bloodshed resulted; but which side began the quarrel, or which was guilty of the greater massacre, has never been determined. It seems that the Druzes suffered the worse, and they might have been almost exterminated but for the intervention of England, for which reason they still keep a particularly friendly feeling toward the British people. This is possibly the root of the persistent belief among the French in Syria and even in Paris that the trouble with the Druzes was instigated and is being maintained by the British.

Fanatical Bravery of Druzes
In war, the Druzes are notorious for what is called fanatical bravery, which means a courage inspired by religious belief or patriotism. Their numbers are unknown, but they are said to be able to put about 40,000 armed men in the field out of a population of about 250,000 all told. Their method of fighting is much the same as that of the Boers in the South African war. The Druzes are a brave and patriotic people, which means a courage inspired by religious belief or patriotism. DIVORCES SECRET
CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 7.—Turks, because of their dislike for publicity, have been hesitant about taking advantage of the new divorce laws. Press reports have been forbidden by the cabinet in an effort to overcome this, and the judges try cases in secret.

STAGE AND SCREEN

BY SHELLEY PIERCE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Anne Nichols now has three plays running on Broadway. "Sam Abramovitch," an adaptation of a French play by Francois Porché, has come to join the ever popular "Abie's Irish Rose" and "Howdy King." The story deals with the trials and tribulations of a Jewish immigrant in New York. Indications are that it won't be a serious rival for Abie's record. Pedro de Cordoba has the leading role.

John Barrymore's latest picture, "When a Man Loves," is to have its New York premiere at the Selwyn theater soon. Dolores Costello plays the feminine lead. A Vitaphone program made up of opera singers and musical comedy stars will also be presented.

"The Big Parade," now in its sixty-fourth week at the Astor theater, has broken all records in the length of its New York run. Its nearest competitor was "The Ten Commandments," which showed for sixty-one weeks. The picture had previously smashed the record for attendance and gross receipts. It is estimated that nearly 1,000,000 people have seen it here while six times this number have witnessed the production throughout the United States and Canada.

Another Barrie revival is foreseen with acquisition by Grace George of the American and Canadian rights of "The Legend of Leonora." Mrs. Patrick Campbell will play the part of Leonora. The play was first produced in London. Maude Adams presented it here later.

Ernest Torrence is to have one of the principal roles in the film version of "Twelve Miles Out," which Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer will make. He will portray the part of a run runner. John Gilbert is to be starred in the film.

Fighting Hobgoblins

Try a little diaspasin. Supper dances, fancy drinks too much to tobacco, coffee and highly seasoned dishes play havoc with the stomach. Diaspasin takes the worst sort of combination of foods, settles them, absorbs the gassy, sour heartburn and you go peacefully to sleep without a struggle.

It is embarrassing to have to refuse eating in company. But if you are dyspeptic you may safely take a chance with any mixture and avoid suffering by the rule of one or two diaspasins after eating. You'll get more out of life, more pleasure, more health, more strength and endurance.

Steady digestion and freedom from acid-dyspepsia is guaranteed any stomach by the use of diaspasin after eating.

Get a 60 cent package of Paper's Diaspasin at any drug store. You'll recommend it.—Adv.

SPINSTERHOOD NO FEMININE UTOPIA, SAYS IDA TARBELL

Ida M. Tarbell

Authoress Says Woman's Greatest Career Is That of Mother

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—"Travel light! Let other spinsters annex the wives, clothe the twins and face the mother-in-law. While husbands become the burden bearers and carry the excess baggage of life, the bachelor may sprout ahead and get in the spotlight."

Very well, that's a man's viewpoint. Now for the inevitable feminine angle; will spinsterhood continue to lead the life I have, I expect the same blessings? If she renounces helpless husband and lisp to get, may woman also sit on the top of the earth and clasp the bachelor's hand in silent fellowship?

Alas, nothing so hopeful awaits her, according to Ida M. Tarbell, speaking from the viewpoint of a successful and famous unmarried woman. All she gets for her trouble is vain regrets.

Declares Fame Easy

"Anyone," she says, "can become famous. That is, you can get into the spotlight. Just be eccentric enough or persistent enough and you can become a public character of some sort. But what does fame mean to a woman or man? What is it worth? Why go after it?"

She wasn't asking rhetorical questions. This brilliant woman who was a muckraker when muck was muck and rakers were few, who dared to tackle subjects and uncover situations that only men were supposed to know existed, who has become a famous author and historian, does not consider herself a success. Nor does she value her fame.

"The woman who rears a happy, intelligent family and succeeds in getting along with one man—she is the woman who has done an important work in the world. She has fulfilled her destiny and forged her link between the past and the future. If she has handled another job besides, so much the better. But her first obligation is to the race."

That's Miss Tarbell's idea, expressed apropos Representative Theodore Burton's recent extolment of bachelorhood.

Career Hard Taskmaster

"Certainly," she agrees, "a career is a hard taskmaster. Undoubtedly a woman who gives all of her time and efforts to a profession, who assumes no home ties, and has only herself to look after, can travel more easily than one who has dependents clinging to her skirts. But fate beats her in the end by showing her just how empty and how unwhimsical fortune is."

"A woman who does not marry and become a mother misses out on her greatest opportunity. No books or paintings are as important as her human creations. Sometimes, of course, a woman does not deliberately chuck this responsibility. Her life may work out that way. But there are women who believe that some pious duty job that pays a weekly salary is preferable to the really big job they were cut out for. They are mistaken."

Her Attitude Impersonal

Miss Tarbell is not the type of woman to whom you can say, "Come now, if these be your sentiments, why didn't you marry?" Her attitude is decidedly impersonal. If she has handled another job besides, so much the better. But her first obligation is to the race.

NOTICE OF HEARING Application No. 13342 Before the Railroad Commission of the State of California.

In the Matter of the Application of the Santa Ana Water Company, a corporation, for a certificate of public convenience and necessity.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Railroad Commission of the State of California has set a hearing in the above entitled matter for Thursday, February 17, 1927, at 11:00 a. m., in the Directors Room, First State Bank at San Juan Capistrano, California, at which time and place all interested parties may appear.

BY ORDER OF THE RAILROAD COMMISSION.

Dated at San Francisco, California, this 19th day of January, 1927.

H. G. MATTHEWS, Secretary, Railroad Commission of the State of California.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—The Southern Pacific railroad today applied to the interstate commerce commission for authority to abandon a three-mile strip between Crump and Alcide, Calif.

BALANCE SHEET OF KRUPPS HAS RED INK

COLOGNE, Feb. 7.—The balance sheet of Krupp for the last year has just been passed and shows a loss of 2,106,227 marks (about $500,000), compared with a loss of 15,293,772 marks in 1925. Herr Luther, former chancellor, has been elected a member of the board.

In a directors' report, it is mentioned that, while coal production in the Krupp mines exceeded that of the previous year, it had not reached the level of the 1913 output. The steel production last December was the largest in the history of the firm. There had been a considerable increase in the demand for rustless steel.

It also mentioned that a new substance has been evolved for the production of boiler plates. A new non-metallic foundry iron had also been invented, and patents were being taken out for a new metal to be used in the manufacture of various implements. Conditions in the shops engaged in the manufacture of locomotives and rolling stock are described as being satisfactory.

In a statement on the present condition of the Krupp firm, Herr Krupp von Bohlen and Halbach said that many technical innovations had been brought about that had enabled the fullest and most economic use to be made of the available plant. The mines, foundries and steel works would be well employed fulfilling profitable contracts for several months, but it was difficult to estimate in how far the present improvement in the condition of the mining, iron and steel industry would lead solely to the British coal strike.

Under the heading of "Krupp's Balance Sheet," the following figures are given: 1926: Sales, 1,400,000,000 marks; Production, 1,400,000,000 marks; Net profit, 1,400,000,000 marks.

SECTION THREE

By GEORGE BRIGGS

(Herewith, The Register presents the story of the most recent big game hunting expedition of George Briggs and Howard Timmons, Santa Ana sportsmen. Articles will appear daily in this newspaper.)

Howard Timmons and I sailed from Wilmington aboard the H. F. Alexander August 13, 1926, at 5 p. m., for a big game hunt out of Telegraph creek, British Columbia.

A day in San Francisco, another in Seattle and still another in Vancouver were pleasantly spent and then we were on our way, aboard the Princess Louise, bound for Wrangell, Alaska, from which place we were to take a small boat of the Barrington Transportation line up the Stikine river to Telegraph creek. This river has an incomparable charm for me and the trip is wonderfully scenic.

We passed customs the first day out at the national boundary and two days later arrived at Telegraph creek, our starting and out-fitting point.

Meet Their Outfitter
"Hello, Frank, mighty glad to see you, old scout, this is my hunting partner, Howard Timmons and Howard, this is Frank Callaway, our outfitter." Next we met our two native boys, John and Dick.

On my previous hunt out of here I had crossed the Stikine and Klappan rivers—now I was to go in an exactly opposite direction. We loaded around that afternoon and the next morning and were glad to pack up and get started about noon the second day. The saddle horses were not much to speak of but the four pack horses were the very best I had ever seen on the trail in one string and they could handle big loads.

Four days out we crossed Cheslay and swinging to the left, began to climb the mountain. Mosquitos and bugs were bad until above timber-line but the scenery was wonderful. We crossed a high barren and camped in a lovely place where we had out first ice. Timmons had been collecting grouse and ptarmigan along the trail and these we had for supper.

Make Long Journey
Next morning we were on the road early and probably made the longest and much the hardest day's travel of the hunt, crossing a big glacial stream that all but swamped the horses, then climbed a mountain and made camp late at timber-line, on the edge of sheep country.

Most of the horses were "all in" from the day's travel but the grass was fine and the following day's rest put them on their toes again. From our present camp we saw white goats and cow and calf moose. Next day we made our camp more snug as we were to hunt from here. The elevation was high—typical sheep country and reported good for bear. From above camp we could count 19 snow glaciers, some small, others large, like so many white blankets on the skyline. A cold spring bubbled up near camp and dead wood was scattered all around and we never failed to get blue grouse from here, so it was an ideal camp.

Prospect for Sheep
Next morning Howard and the two Indians concluded to prospect for sheep while I went in an opposite direction—looking for bear. The Indians put on new moccasins, Howard his heavy shoes. I gave them a little lunch and took the same for myself. Following along the timber-line I kept a lookout, with the glasses, for bear and while I saw nothing in my line I returned to camp about dark having had a wonderful day. I prepared supper and waited for the boys to come in. About 5 o'clock in came John pretty well played out and his moccasins entirely gone; in fact he had been on his bare feet for the last hour. I warmed supper and soon we all went to bed and to sleep. About 2:30 a. m. Howard and Dick came in, having returned to camp by a longer route as they had scared sheep and wanted a way to get the horses up. They left camp about 7:30 o'clock that morning and at 10:30 that night Howard had to quit so they built a fire, roasted a grouse, slept a bit and then made camp.

RECORD SET AS 100 READY TO VIA FOR TITLE

Register 'Triumph' Trophy And Two Other Cups to Go to Victorious Sides

Scores of athletes will swarm the oval at Santa Ana high school tomorrow for the first events in the three day novice interclass track meet which will decide the much disputed cinderpath supremacy among the seniors, juniors and sophomores. Class teams held rallies at noon today to lay final plans for winning the "Triumph" trophy, to be awarded the winning class by the Santa Ana Register.

More than 100 entries have been made for the meet. Coach Gerald ("Tex") Oliver, Poly, track general, said.

A furious battle for the championship is expected between the juniors and seniors as these classes appear almost evenly matched. Although the sophomores are not expected to be winners, they will probably spring some new surprises and upset the best laid plans of the upperclassmen.

Turnout Sets Record
The track turnout at the Poly institution this season is the largest in the history of the school. The juniors have the most entries with 40. The seniors have 33 and the sophomores 27. A number of last minute participants for the sophomores is expected from the mid-year graduation classes of Santa Ana junior high schools.

A few recruits who reported for basketball earlier in the season have been training on the Poly track squad. Cliff Belding has been stepping a fast 440-yard dash and Myron Dungan is hurling the discus skillfully.

Training for the interclass meet was slowed up considerably during the last two weeks by the mid-year examinations and re-registration at the school. Rekindled interest was aroused about the school today, however, as the time for the meet drew near.

Three Trophies at Stake
Three cups are to be awarded in the meet. The "Triumph" trophy, a perpetual award given by The Register, will go to the class winning the meet. The Roy C. Peterson cup will be given the athlete making the most points. The third cup, offered by Victor Walker, will be awarded the class having the largest number actually competing.

Preliminary contests will be held in most of the track events and in some of the field events. Coach Oliver said. Eliminations will be in the sprints, high jump, broad jump and pole vault events, in which a large number of entries have been made.

Finals in the field events will comprise the program for Wednesday afternoon. The track finals at which the interclass title will be decided will be held Thursday afternoon.

Diving Champion

Helen Meany, Holder Of National Tank Title, Goes To Florida

During the winter months, the leading aquatic performer here, Helen Meany, has been training at the Venetian pools, Coral Gables, Fla.

The total prize money hung up for the coming tournament of the American Bowling Congress at Peoria will set a new high record of close to $150,000.

Walter Johnson, veteran pitcher of the American league, has signed his twentieth contract with the Washington Senators.

BILLY EVANS

GREAT OUTFIELD
The signing of Tris Speaker by Washington, to my way of thinking, gives that club the best outfield in the majors.

Goslin in left, Speaker in center and Rice in right, comprise an outfield that would be hard to beat. It boasts unusual strength in every department of play.

I can think of only one outfield that might possibly be rated better, the old Boston Red Sox combination of Lewis, Speaker and Hooper.

The Washington trio of today has a greater batting strength, in fielding it is about a standoff between the two, on the bases, Goslin, Speaker and Rice are faster, in throwing alone did the Red Sox definitely excel.

Washington pitchers should have little to kick about this summer as far as their outfield is concerned.

STILL HAS CLASS
Tris Speaker has slowed up some, of course, but is far from being through. I don't know how many more years he intends to play, I have heard only one, but

JACK DEMPSEY ABED AS LEFT ARM INFECTED

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7.—Jack Dempsey's preparation for an attempt to regain his lost heavyweight crown, probably will be deferred for at least a month, it was learned today as the result of the serious case of blood poisoning that has infected the ex-champion's left arm and hand.

Dempsey was reported to be much improved today but his physician, Dr. Warren Clark, announced that although the spread of the disease had been checked, Dempsey was not yet out of danger.

Dempsey was stricken when an insignificant scratch on the middle finger of his left hand became swollen and blood poisoning set in. His entire left arm became infected but was normal again today and Dempsey will be forced to remain in bed for a week.

He was scheduled to leave here tomorrow for Wheeler Hot Springs, to begin training for another match for the world championship with Gene Tunney.

EDDIE HUFFMAN IN N. Y. BOUT TONIGHT

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Young Stribling and Eddie Huffman, of Los Angeles, will meet tonight in a fight heralded as a part of Tex Rickard's heavyweight elimination tournament out of which he hopes a challenger for Gene Tunney will emerge.

Stribling has had a long rest since he had a rather disappointing showing against Paul Berlenbach last summer and says he is a much better man than he was that night.

Tranquility Reigns In Young Family

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 7.—Tranquility prevailed today in the family of George Young, Catalina swim hero. George and his mother have seen each other for the first time since the Canadian youth made his famous channel crossing. Later it was announced his mother had agreed that Henry O'Byrne, George's present manager, should be retained.

With Mrs. Young's submission in the managerial controversy, the other claimants to George's management vanished and peace reigned.

BALL MAGNATES REST; TY COBB IS UNDECIDED

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—After all the turmoil of scandals that have gained wide prominence, owners of big league clubs were gathered here today for what they called "a little peace and recreation."

Usually all of the club owners, who have to keep in what routine business calls the "schedule meetings" on Tuesday, attended the annual dinner of the New York baseball writers last night and heard themselves roasted brown.

"We wanted some of the amusement and entertainment that was given us," Colonel Jake Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees, said. "We have been through so much since the last world series that we didn't want anything serious. We are going to meet Tuesday in what we think will be a meeting full of peace and no troubles to consider."

There were two topics of interest in a technical baseball way. "Where is Ty Cobb going?" and "How are the Giants to dispose of Rogers Hornsby's stock in the St. Louis club?"

It had been reported that Cobb was to meet with the officials of the Yankees today to talk business. When the Yankees were trying to interest Tris Speaker in signing a contract the officials of the club were frank in saying that they were not interested in Cobb until it turned out that they couldn't get Speaker.

Speaker turned down a New York offer that must have been very good, more than was given him by the Washington club and he took the Washington job for less money because he was guaranteed a regular working job in the Senator outfield and Miller Huggins, manager of the Yankees, told him that he had no regular place for him.

Cobb, who has been talking to Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, who also failed to land Speaker, was said to be just as insistent as Speaker was that he be given a regular playing position.

HARRY COOPER WINS FROM WALTER HAGEN

DALLAS, Tex., Feb. 7.—"Light-horse" Harry Cooper, youthful Dallas-reared professional golfer, was holder today of the unofficial world's golf title after giving Walter Hagen, recognized leading pro of the world, one of the worst drubblings he ever received.

In a 72 hole exhibition over two Dallas courses Saturday and Sunday, young Cooper won by the decisive margin of 10 up and 9 to 3. Cooper finished 62 holes in 247 five below par figures, while Hagen was shooting 256.

WOMAN SWIMS CHANNEL: BOY SPURS HER ON

LONG BEACH, Calif., Feb. 7.—The first woman to swim the Catalina channel, famous 23 mile derby course of the Wrigley marathon, rested in her home here today, while an 11-year-old boy, related with pride his mother's amazing victory over the treacherous stretch of blue Pacific.

The remarkable achievement of Mrs. Myrtle Huddleston, who staggered onto the rocks at Point Vicente and collapsed yesterday morning, after conquering the channel in 20 hours and 42 minutes, vies with the most vivid chapters of melodramatic fiction.

Attacked by barracuda, lost in a heavy fog, carried back several miles by adverse currents and tides, as she neared the mainland, the middle-aged woman, whose swimming power dates back only several months, finished the feat that only two or three men have made, her time only bettered by the 17-year-old Canadian youth, George Young.

Did It for Her Son
"George Young did it for his widowed mother," Mrs. Huddleston said at her home here today. "I did it for my son that I might give him a college education."

Mrs. Huddleston was accompanied by a party of nine, including C. W. Addler, of Buffalo, champion of the Great Lakes, who taught her to swim; Charles Toth of Boston, conqueror of the English channel in 1923, and Sam Richards, Boston, endurance champion of America for the past nine years.

She left Catalina at 2:32 o'clock Saturday afternoon and encountered little difficulty until reaching the half way mark.

"I was making good time as darkness fell over the channel waters and swimming with ease," Mrs. Huddleston said. "Suddenly a fin flashed by and I felt a sharp stinging sensation in my side."

Fish Bites Her Again
"The big fish returned again and nipped me on the arm several times, but was apparently driven away when I screamed and the searchlight from the boat was turned on me."

She said she remembered little of the last hour of her swim except the voice of her son, Everett, crying out from the nearby boat, "Come on, Mom, doggone it! Come on, Mom!"

And the woman who had been lost for three hours in the fog, buffeted by high waves, carried out of her course by heavy currents, fought on mechanically and almost unconsciously for the last hour of her struggle.

She was bleeding profusely from a wound in her left breast and as she reached the rocks fell back into the water unconscious, to be picked up by members of her party and placed in the convey boat.

Legs Are Paralyzed
With her legs paralyzed by the icy temperature of the water, which at one time registered 49 degrees, and weakened by the loss of blood, Mrs. Huddleston was taken to her home, where she completely recovered from the grueling test.

Three other long-distance nators, Peter Myers, of Cincinnati; Martha Stager, of Portland, O.; and Lottie Schoenmell, of New York, meanwhile had been conquered by the channel.

LOCAL COLLEGE CAGERS CRUSH POMONA, 38-11

The cage squads of the Santa Ana junior college, using nutcracker tactics, crushed the Pomona junior college basketball team by the score of 38 to 11 in the ninth conference game of the Southern California junior college league season in Andrews gymnasium here Saturday night.

Knowing that the cellar-cemented visitors were not strong enough to offer much competition, Coach Walter Scott's henchmen set out to make 50 points, something they failed to accomplish even if their victory was so decisive that no doubt was left in the minds of the spectators as to which side was the better.

Frank Labrucherie, forward, captured high point honors from Paris Edgar, his teammate across the floor, by contributing 19 points toward the Santa Ana total.

Melvin Harter, tall center, slipped three baskets through the hoop in the first half and generally gave a good account of himself. Willard White was supposed to start at center but Coach Scott learned on the eve of the game that White was ill with a slight attack of flu.

The regular guards, Russell Kokx and Captain Donald Squires, checked the Pomona jabs at goals, easily meeting the unique Pomona one man offense.

Coach Scott sent in his second team at the half. The score at the close of the first interval was 24 to 6. Wilbur Allee and Roy Souther were the "big guns" for the local second string.

The lineup:
Santa Ana (38) (11) Pomona
Edgar (9)..... (6) Allee
Harter (6)..... (2) Harbour
Kokx (4)..... (1) Simpson
Squires (4)..... (1) Eldridge
Substitutions: Santa Ana—Roselle (1) for Edgar, Souther (3) for Labrucherie, Allee (4) for Harter, Reinhardt for Kokx, Farris for Reinhardt, Smith for Squires.

LOCAL ANGLER WINS BALBOA FISH CONTEST

Jack Fessman, of Santa Ana, won the first prize of $10 offered by the Balboa chamber of commerce for the largest fish caught off the Balboa pier yesterday. The fish weighed nine pounds, according to Russell Huddleston, master of weights at the pier.

Bob Blair, of Balboa, won the $5 prize offered for the smallest fish caught. Blair's fish weighed 231 grains. It takes 437.5 grains to make an ounce and 7000 grains to make a pound, so Blair's fish was not much to brag about even if it did prove to be worth $5. P. T. Patterson donated the $5.

More than 200 persons were at the Balboa pier to participate in the contest. The judging of the fish was done by members of the Balboa Angling club who assisted the chamber of commerce in sponsoring the event.

A THREE DAYS COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

SUNDAY SERMON

By EVANGELIST J. H. SEWELL
Pastor, Church of Christ
(Sermon delivered recently from radio station KFON).

The subject of my talk is "The Character of Christ." In John 12:32-33 Jesus said, "And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto myself." But this he said, signifying by what manner of death he should die. The drawing power of the religion of Christ is Christ himself. Insofar as the name of Christ is exalted in our teaching and our preaching, men are drawn to His religion, and the preaching and teaching which fails to extol and exalt this precious name will fail to accomplish the purpose for which preaching is intended. The greatest drawing power that the Christian preacher has today is the story as expressed by John in the words, "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten son that whosoever believeth on Him shall not perish but have eternal life. For God sent not the son into the world to judge the world, but that the world should be saved through Him."

The story of the death on the cross, the burial in the tomb of the rich man, Joseph of Arimathea, the Roman guards placed about the tomb as a watch to guarantee that His disciples would not steal His body away, and the story of His glorious resurrection—the one fundamental fact of the Christian religion, the one thing upon which the whole Christian structure stands or falls, is a story that every follower of Christ should be thoroughly familiar with. If you are not familiar with it, turn and read it. Read it often for there has never been a story like it in the world before or since. In this connection I am reminded of an article I read recently in the Literary Digest. It recounted the story of a meeting or council of leading agnostics of the world that was held in Paris some time ago. The Bible was held up to ridicule by this learned assembly and the Christian religion was made an object of scorn.

Moves Minds and Hearts
At the height of discussion, one of the men arose and said, "Gentlemen, we have here assembled what is admittedly the greatest group of intellectual giants in the world and I would like to say that while we may ridicule the Bible and the Christian religion, there is not a man in this great assembly who has ever written a story or who will ever write a story that will move the minds and hearts of men as the story of the life, the death and the resurrection of Jesus Christ." Read it and you yourself will feel the tremendous drawing power of Christ.

However, not alone the story of Christ's death has power over our lives to draw us nearer to God and the truth, but the story of His life as well. The Apostle Paul in First Corinthians 11:1 says, "Be ye imitators of me, even as I also am of Christ." While the life of Jesus was an exceedingly short one, of 33 years, and while His active ministry was confined to three years of those 33, His character has made an indelible impression upon the pages of history, and upon the minds and hearts of countless thousands of men and women. Just as without the death of Christ the world would have been without a Savior and Redeemer, so without the life of Christ the world would not have a single example of human perfection. All of us, business men, professional men, laboring men, women and children, can obtain inspiration and help in the practice of living, through a study of the life and character of Jesus. Paul, in the fourth chapter of Hebrews, said that we have an High Priest, meaning Christ, who can be touched with the feeling of our infirmities and that He was in all points tempted like we are, yet without sin.

Foundation of Character
The foundation of the character of Christ was that, which every follower of Christ should strive to establish as the foundation of his character. Foundation material must of a necessity be strong, be pure, be as unyielding as the granite of which we make the foundations of our great buildings—so the foundation of the character of Christ was a stern, rugged, uncompromising righteousness. Without this foundation He could never have fulfilled the purpose of His life. Without this foundation of character today no man is thoroughly equipped for usefulness in human society. Jesus was tempted as we are, but such was the sterling righteousness of His character that not for one moment did He temporize, not for one moment did He argue with Himself concerning these temptations, not for an instant did He compromise with sin.

In the fourth chapter of Luke we find three temptations coming to Christ. The Record says that "He fasted forty days in the wilderness" and at the completion of this time He was hungry, and I can well believe that He was hungry. The tempter came to Him and said, "If you are the son of God, command this stone that it become bread." If Jesus had been like some of us, He would have reasoned thusly, "I'm hungry. I have the power to perform this miracle. Surely there can be no harm in my doing so." But with His keen perception of right and wrong, He recognized the principle that it would have been sinful to have used His powers for a purely selfish purpose. Oh, but that man could have learned that lesson in the 1900 odd years intervening between that time and now. We would not have the spectacle of men and women using every fibre of their body, every impulse of their brain, and every God-given talent they possess in a mad scramble for selfish self-gratification, money and pleasure wild. Jesus answered this temptation, therefore, with a passage of Scripture, "Man shall not live by bread alone."

Great Temptation
After His victory over this temptation, the tempter showed Him all the kingdoms of the world and said, "To thee will I give all this authority, and the glory of them: for it hath been delivered unto me; and to whomsoever I will I give it. If thou, therefore, wilt worship before me, it shall all be thine." This must have indeed been a great temptation and a man with less of the spirit of God might have succumbed to it. Had Jesus chosen to have forsaken His ministry, to have given up His plan of dying for the sins of the world, and yielded to this temptation, He possibly could have become the greatest temporal monarch of all time. His glory and power would have surpassed the glory of Solomon, His power and His dominion embraced every kingdom of the world.

This was in many ways an alluring prospect as compared, on the other hand, with a short and stormy career, wherein it was said, "The foxes have holes, but the Son of Man has not where to lay His head," a short career of three years culminated by a cruel and bloody death accompanied by taunts, jibes, and insults. However, standing at the forks of the road and looking with the faith to His future sacrifices and sufferings and with the eye of temptation to the earthly glory that was proffered Him, again there was no hesitation, again no temporizing, no arguments with himself, no attempt to justify in His own mind such a course of conduct, but with the uncompromising righteousness which was the bedrock of His character, the temptation was cast out of His mind and again He hurled the tempter back with a quotation from the Scriptures, "Thou shalt worship the Lord, thy God, and him only shalt thou serve." The third temptation which was presented to Him, namely, that of glorifying himself by a needless miracle in the presence of the people, was met just as quickly and as fearlessly with a firm refusal and another passage of Scripture.

Wonderful Lessons
There are two wonderful lessons that we may learn from the example of Christ during these temptations. One, that the way to meet temptation of any kind is to meet it immediately with a strong, firm, fearless "No," not a weak, stammering, indecisive, "I guess not" or "I don't want to," but a "No" that means "No." And I want to say that in most of the affairs of life it takes a braver man to say "No" than to say "Yes." The next beautiful lesson that we can learn from this is to meet all temptations with a quotation from the word of God. The Bible is an all sufficient guide to us, if we will but study it and use it in our lives. Fortunate indeed is the man who knows his Bible well enough to use it as a guide and help to him in the struggles and temptations of life. If, when you are tempted to do those things which are wrong, you will follow the example of Christ and meet the temptation with a decided "No," followed up by thinking and meditating upon the passage of Scripture which will aid you in this particular temptation, you will be stronger morally and spiritually as a result.

His love of righteousness and His hatred of evil is further emphasized by the account of His driving the money changers out of the Temple of God. Making a whip of cords, He drove the traders out of the temple with their sheep and their oxen, overthrew the tables, poured out their money, saying, "It is written and My house shall be made the house of prayer, but ye have made it a den of robbers."

Christ's Genuineness
Another beautiful force in the character of Christ was His genuineness. His righteousness was a righteousness of the heart, real and genuine, and was not something assumed for the eyes of men. In the 23rd chapter of Matthew we have what I believe to be the most wonderful teaching in the world on genuineness of heart as opposed to hypocrisy. "Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites!" He cried, "for ye cleanse the outside of the cup and of the platter, but within they are full from extortion and excess. Thou blind Pharisee, cleanse first the inside of the cup and of the platter, that the outside thereof may become clean also. Woe unto you, scribe and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye are life unto whited sepulchres, which outwardly appear beautiful, but inwardly are full of dead men's bones, and of all uncleanness. Even so ye also outwardly appear righteous unto men, but inwardly ye are full of hypocrisy and iniquity." Jesus loved men for men to be what they were, He loved for men to be genuinely just and true one to the other, and no one can study the life of Christ without it being of benefit to him in his relations with his fellow man. Jesus shows His love of justice in speaking of the Pharisees where He says, "Yea, they bind heavy burdens and grievous to be borne, and lay them on men's shoulders but they themselves will not move them with their finger. But all their works they do to be seen of men; for they make broad their phylacteries, and enlarge the borders of their garments, and love the chief place at feasts, and the chief seats in the synagogues, and the salutations in the market places, and to be called Rabbi." If we learn nothing from the life of Jesus but that which we can learn in the wonderful 23rd chapter of Matthew, the world would be infinitely richer because of that life.

Jesus Not a Prude
The reason I am pointing out so forcibly Christ's love of righteousness and condemnation of evil is that it seems to be a rather popular idea nowadays to teach that Jesus was a sort of a good fellow, inclined to look with a tolerant eye on the wrong-doings of the world.

"Jesus was not a prude," they tell us. "He would not condemn us for doing the little things which we are engaged in doing." It is true He was not a prude. There was nothing of prudery of bigotry about Him, but He was uncompromisingly righteous. His morals were perfection itself, and the things of God were sacred to Him. However, the stern righteousness of His character was relieved by other qualities foremost of which was the love of men. He loved His apostles and enjoyed being in their society. He often visited the home of Mary and Martha and their brother Lazarus in Bethany and loved to be with them and they loved to have Him. He mixed and mingled with the common people of the times, for which He was reproved by the scribes and Pharisees. He enjoyed the society of human beings, both in times of joy and sorrow.

Just before His trial and death, He went into the garden of Gethsemane to pray. He took some of His apostles with Him in order that they might be near Him in His hour of darkness. I am glad that Jesus was like this. As it is an example for me; I feel that it is right that the follower of Christ should be intensely human, should enjoy the society of his followers, should not be a recluse. I believe in enjoying to the fullest extent the society of our fellow beings in so far as we can do it without compromising our standards of right and wrong. The Christian religion is not a religion of long-faced, self-righteousness which repels men, but the true religion of Christ is a happy religion, a religion of enjoyment, good fellowship, happiness and kindness, which attracts men.

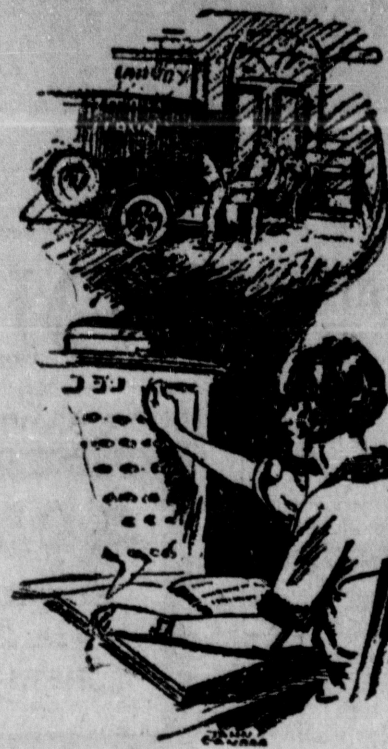

Tempered By Love
His wonderful sense of justice was tempered by the love He had in His heart, and the mercy that He felt for those who had done wrong. When the woman taken in sin was brought to Him by her accusers, the line of least resistance would have been to tell the accusers to stone her as was provided in the law of Moses. But the great heart which was to bear so much of persecution for our sakes was touched with the sight of this poor creature hounded and persecuted by a hypocritical crowd that was no better than she was, and He was moved to save her from their power with the simple statement, "He that is without sin, let him cast the first stone." When her accusers were all gone He himself allowed her her freedom with the admonition, however, to go her way and sin no more.

His love for those about Him was beautifully illustrated in His provision for His mother, Mary, as He hung in agony on the Cross. As He looked down upon her who had undoubtedly meant so much to Him in His early life, who had tenderly cared for Him as a child, and who had treasured up in her heart the wonderful things of His life, His heart was again moved and He commended her to the care and keeping of John, His beloved disciple, as recorded in these words, "When Jesus therefore saw his mother, and the disciple standing by, whom he loved, he saith unto his mother, Woman, behold thy son! Then saith he to the disciple, Behold thy mother! And from that hour that disciple took her unto his own home," showing that ever-present thoughtfulness for others so characteristic of Him even in the hour of his own shameful, humiliating death.

Honor Thy Mother
I believe that care and thoughtfulness shown to His mother in the hour of His death to be one of the most splendid acts of a splendid, unselfish career, and I am reminded in this connection that he who would be a follower of Christ, and who would be pleasing to the Lord, can not be either and neglect his mother or his helpless, dependent father. One of the Ten Commandments of the law of Moses given from the Lord God on the summit of quaking Sinai was "Honor thy father and thy mother that thy

When Firemen Ran to Fires

IN THE DAYS when firemen ran to fires, losses were proportionately greater than they are today. In those days everything moved slowly.

You became ill, however, just as suddenly then as now, but many times it took your physician hours to get to you, and when he did arrive, the service he could render was limited by restricted knowledge.

Thousands of families right here in Orange County have cause to be thankful for the physician's high powered motor car of today, for speed has saved many a life.

Because the physician is a professional man and not usually thought of in the same class with the merchant or manufacturer, the public, while fully recognizing "increase in overhead and production costs of the manufacturer" does not seem to think that the same conditions apply to the doctor. As a matter of fact, overhead costs for the physician have increased as much and in many instances much more, than have those of the merchant or manufacturer.

Yet the physician has not increased his fee for either office or home attention in anything like the proportion in which his overhead has grown. Neither has the physician laid any more stress on collections than he did when overhead was but a slight consideration with him.

Perhaps it never occurred to you that the man who enters medicine, is temperamentally entirely different from the man who enters business. He takes up medicine with the same idea that the young man takes up the ministry—to serve and help humanity. He enters a profession that requires years of study before he can realize a dollar, and when he begins to practice, he naturally has a very large percentage of charity work. His thoughts are about the patient. If they were not he would not respond to any and all calls at all times of night and in all kinds of weather.

A few physicians have a business secretary or office assistant, but most of them trust to the honesty of their patients. Sad to relate, many, many times the physician's bills are the last ones thought of in many families.

Treat your physician fair. No service you get in this world is more important than his. If it isn't convenient to pay cash at the time, the service is rendered, at least, be fair enough to pay within 30 days as you pay all other bills.

THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA: Lewis and Clark

Sketches By Kroesen
Synopsis By Braucher

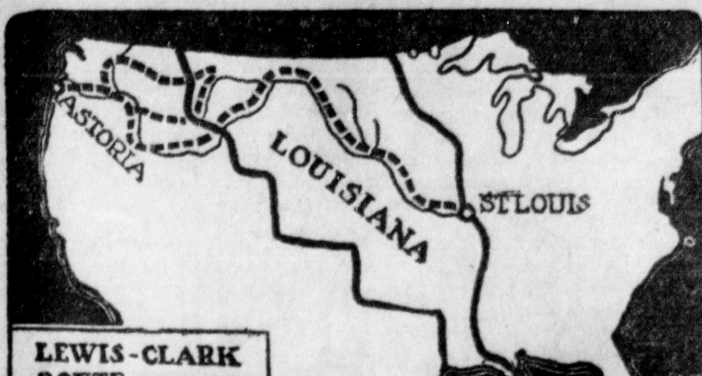

In 1801 a young army captain from Charlottesville, Va., became the secretary to President Thomas Jefferson. His name was Meriwether Lewis and he came from a well-known Virginia family, being a grand nephew of Fielding Lewis, who married a sister of George Washington. Jefferson was then negotiating with France for the purchase of Louisiana territory.

Robert Livingston and James Monroe offered Napoleon $2,000,000 for New Orleans and West Florida, to win control of the Mississippi's mouth.

Napoleon refused. "All or none," he told the American envoys. So the United States paid $15,000,000 for the whole territory of Louisiana.

LEWIS-CLARK ROUTE

Out of that vast domain the United States was to carve the states of Louisiana, Arkansas, Missouri, Iowa, Nebraska, the Dakotas, Oklahoma, Minnesota and parts of Kansas, Wyoming, Montana and Colorado. Jefferson, eager to probe the land's resources, decided to have it explored. Lewis was quick to volunteer.

THE TINYMITE'S
BY HAL COCHRAN

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

"Hang on," said Scouty Tinymite. "Cause if we do, we'll be all right. I hope this airship doesn't drop and drag us in the sea. I don't know where we're going now, but surely, you will all allow that this is better than our boat. It seems that way to me."

What Scouty meant, by what he said was that they'd surely get ahead much faster on the airplane than on any drifting ship. With little pleasure out at sea, he knew they all desired to be upon the dry land rather than a lonesome water strip.

The rope that they were clinging to swung back and forth. It thrilled them, too. Imagine flying on through space not knowing whether bound. The Tinymites figured that, of course, the big balloon would be their source of after while arriving at some safe spot on the ground.

"Ah, this is luck," wee Clowny said. "I see dry land, far, far ahead. I guess that's where we're heading for. I wish they'd make more speed. My arms are sore as they can be from hanging to this rope. Oh, gee, a real good rest and then some food is what I think I need."

The airship kept on going fast, right toward the land until at last they heard the engine stop its hum. The ship began to glide. "Hurrah," said Clowny. "I'll be glad to land, although the trip we've had is probably the finest trip that we have ever tried."

Just then, however, something cracked, and, in a moment, Scouty shrieked. "The rope that we are hanging to is breaking. Here we go." And then the rope snapped right in two. The next thing that the Tinymites knew they fell and landed smack upon the water down below.

The Tinymites are rescued in the next story.

Queer Quirks of
- NATURE -

THE BASSWOOD AS AN ORNAMENT

BY ARTHUR N. PACK
President, American Nature Ass'n.

Anyone living in the eastern part of the United States must be thoroughly familiar with the basswood, if not as a forest tree at least as one widely used for street planting and ornamental purposes.

The basswood has a wide variety of names, among them white linden, whitewood, beeter, lynn, lime tree and whistledwood. Its leaves are broadly heart-shaped, and one-sided at the base, with tufts of rusty hairs occurring in axils of the veins. It has a brownish gray bark with long vertical fissures; the wood is light brown nearly white, (hence the name whitewood) and is chiefly used in the manufacture of paper pulp.

The American tree has five creamy white petals opposite petal-like scales, but these scales are lacking in the European tree. The well-rounded crown and generous leafage make it well suited for the purposes of street planting, and in June the fragrant blossoms add to the beauty of any city. Even in as well-shaded and attractive a city as Washington, the adaptability of these trees is noticeable far above others.

On Massachusetts avenue, a beautiful residential street, there is a stretch several miles long of basswoods, planted on both sides of the street.

The tree is subject to insect enemies and sensitive to their attacks, but its beauty repays the effort required for overcoming these handicaps. It demands a deep rich soil, and moist bottom-lands and hillsides are its favorite home.

HAIR TROUBLES

Some general warnings about minor scalp troubles seem to be needed from time to time, for so many young girls write me letters like the one I have just opened from Janet F.—. There was a little scurf or dandruff on her scalp for a month or so and she paid no attention to it, then came a sore spot which formed a crust, which was broken off every day when she combed her hair. Presently several sore spots broke out and ultimately she had to go to her doctor.

I hope he told her, as I did when I answered just now, that she had undoubtedly spread the trouble by touching the clean parts of the scalp with the comb that had touched the sore spot. If Janet has sisters who use her comb in the casual manner of sisters, no doubt they'll suffer from sore spots too, at least from dandruff. The greatest cleanliness is necessary about every part of the body. A sore spot on the scalp, with a comb should be touched with an antiseptic, and neither comb nor brush allowed near it until it has healed.

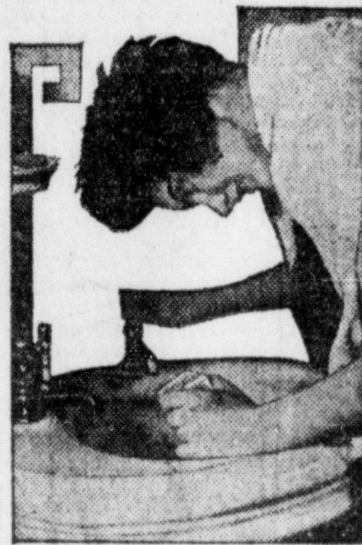

When the hair is washed, an antiseptic soap should be used and a little antiseptic should be used in the water; brushes and combs should be kept clean, washed at least once a week, with antiseptic in the water, and kept in a drawer, not out on the dressing table. This should be done even when the hair is healthy.

If the scalp is covered, not with dandruff, but with hairdressers' oil scurf, clean it off by using a large fine tooth comb. You will literally have to scratch the scalp all over, then comb out the loose scurf, then brush out all that is left in the hair.

June.— Witch hazel used full strength is all right as an astringent, but you will not need it often—more than several times a week, or whenever it is necessary to give the skin an unusual cleansing after being exposed to a great deal of soil.

DINNER—Chicken en casserole, mashed potatoes, corn croquettes, cream and orange salad, whole wheat bread, date and nut pudding, milk, coffee.

Steamed Cocoa Pudding
One cup flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1 egg, 1-2 cup milk, 1-2 cup sugar, 1-2 cup cocoa, 2 tablespoons butter, 1-2 cup chopped dates, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla.

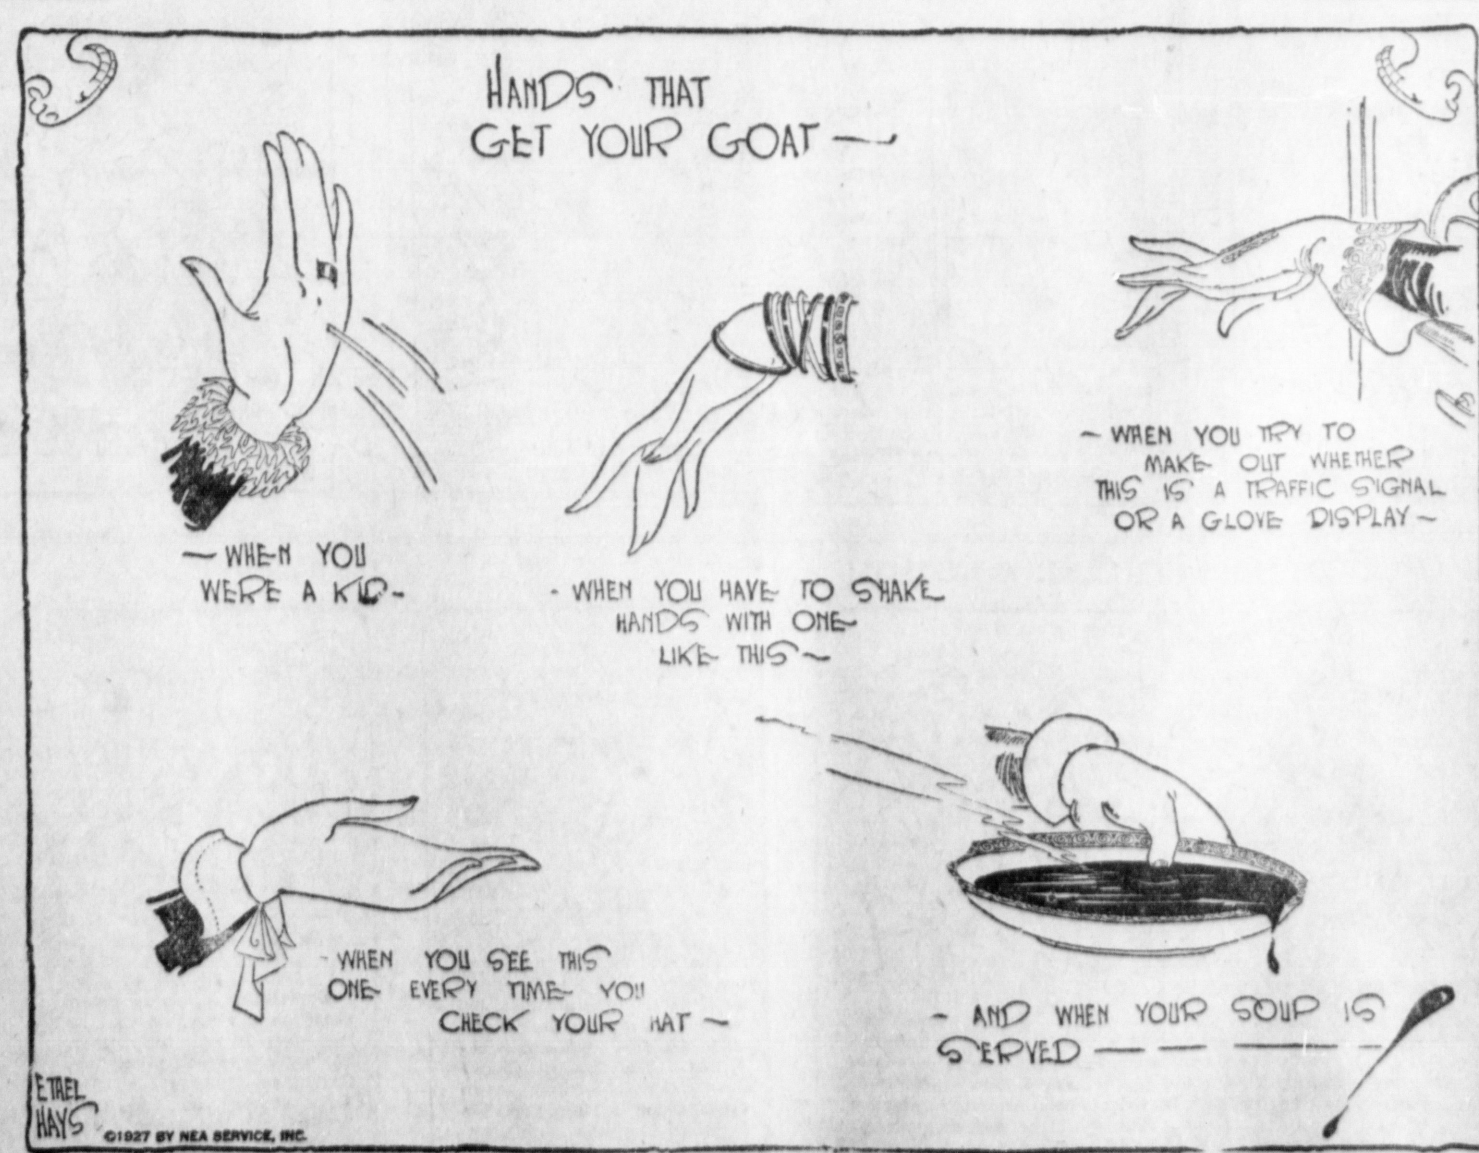

Mix and sift flour, salt, baking powder, sugar and cocoa. Beat yolk of egg until light gradually beating in milk. Add to dry ingredients with butter which has been softened. Beat mixture well and stir in dates. Add white of egg beaten until stiff and dry. Turn into a buttered mold, cover with heavy buttered paper and steam for 1-1/2 hours. Serve with whipped cream or hard sauce flavored with orange.

Amazing Improvement in Mrs. Jester's Health
Surprises Friends. Serious Ailments Caused by Nervous Breakdown Relieved and Strength Restored by Tanlac. Looks and Feels Better Than Ever

"Tanlac has certainly done wonders for me; I cannot praise it enough," declares Mrs. T. D. Jester, 1268 Pennsylvania Avenue, San Diego, Calif. "I had suffered a nervous breakdown and for many months afterward I continued to get worse and worse, despite all the different nerve medicine I tried. Nothing seemed to help until I tried Tanlac."

"I was as near to being a complete nervous and physical wreck as I could be, without entirely collapsing. The slightest noise would make me want to scream, and after retiring it would be hours before I could sleep. I would awaken with terrible nervous headaches and the slightest exertion would tire me out so that I would be trembling. I lost weight and appetite. I tried Tanlac with little expectation of improvement."

"Before I had taken all of the first bottle, I developed a ravenous appetite, and was sleeping better. I continued to improve rapidly and felt like a different person entirely. In less than three weeks I had gained seven pounds. Later, my weight went up from 105 to 125 pounds.

If your troubles are similar to those from which Mrs. Jester suffered so keenly, get relief before it is too late. Tanlac will doubtless help you just as it helped Mrs. Jester—and as it has helped thousands of other sufferers.

Tanlac is a pure and wholesome compound, made from herbs, roots and barks, according to the famous Tanlac formula. It is a wonderful tonic medicine, for run-down and nervous conditions and for digestive disorders. All good druggists sell Tanlac—get your first bottle today! Over 40 million bottles sold.

FRANCE SHUNS DEBT ISSUE IN HOPE OF DELAY

PARIS, Feb. 7.—France's post-war debts to the United States, erroneously known as "war debts," are again put on the parliamentary shelf. It might be more accurate, however, to say shoved further back on the aforementioned shelf.

The events of the last few days have established quite clearly that Poincare is not at all anxious to throw such a heavily dynamited bundle into the chamber. He seems, in fact, quite willing to let it continue collecting dust as long as exterior governments and interior politicians will let him.

Chance publication forced him to show his hand on the debt question, which he had no intention of doing. But with half the truth out of the bag, Poincare, who has been silent these months, had to admit he had instructed Malvy to cease working at the problem of ratification of the Washington agreement.

"There's no hurry about war debts," the premier said in effect. "Just let the matter rest until I tell you the time is opportune. In the meantime the financial situation will get better and better."

Hope to Obtain Further Revision
This means any possible ratification of the Washington agreement by the French parliament is weeks, possibly months away. In the meantime the premier will continue to correspond with Washington via diplomatic channels, hoping to obtain revisionary pledges which will supplement the original agreement. In other words, the hope of some kind of a future safeguard clause still actuates the government.

A considerable element of the parliamentary personnel also hopes for a more extensive revision of debts and some even that cancellation is still possible. This revision clique is openly elated at the Premier's postponement of debt consideration.

The disclosure of Poincare's letter is regarded by many as an indication that he is striving for stabilization before touching the debts, and, that failing, that he is dedicated to even greater revaluation and bolstering of finances. Obviously the premier feels that the longer the day of external accounting is removed the greater strength they will have when the test comes.

Problem Dangerous to Politicians
The question is now how long can he keep this most dangerous of all problems out of the chamber, where it is certain that in its present form the agreement would stir up a hornet's nest? If Poincare is able to obtain some sort of revision it is bound to placate some sworn enemies of the Washington accord and might lead to striking success of the government. If no tangible change is obtained, he merely is postponing the greatest test.

Poincare assured Malvy that at no time had the American government asked France to hasten ratification.

and in all places Jesus Christ was obedient to the will of the Father. Many people today fail to appreciate the importance of obedience to God. Whereas, obedience to God and His laws is the one most important thing in the lives of all mankind, placed in positions of authority and leadership, and rewarded when their labors were completed were those men who, regardless of their other faults, and a high appreciation of what it means to obey the Lord.

Therefore, we find Jesus in the Garden of Gethsemane looking with a prophetic eye to the terrible ordeal which He must undergo, in what was perhaps the darkest hour of His earthly life, praying to the Father, "Father, if it be possible let this cup pass from me. Nevertheless, not my will, but thine be done."

There are many wonderful reasons which we can learn from the life and character of Jesus which will be impossible for me to dwell on in this short talk. However, if in this brief portrayal of the life of Him who both lived and died for us, some soul who is now groping for the great truths of life, will be brought a little nearer to the realization of his desires, I will feel amply repaid.

GAS PLANTS
LAKE FOREST, Ill., Feb. 7.—Every morning for several weeks, L. C. Schiele went out to his greenhouse and found that hundreds of chrysanthemums and carnations had died from some mysterious malady. On the verge of ruin he finally discovered that a gas main had been leaking into the greenhouse and asphyxiated the flowers.

HISTORIC FLAGON FOUND
LONDON, Feb. 7.—The famous silver flagon given by King Charles II to the Portsmouth garrison and stolen from St. Thomas' church last Christmas, has been recovered. The flagon is valued at only $1200, but is famous as a relic. It was stolen as worshippers left the church after Christmas services.

days may be long in the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee," and no man today can live in harmony with the will of God and neglect to care for those dependent ones who once cared for him when he was helpless and dependent. There perhaps is no stronger love than that love which the normal mother feels for her child and it is certainly a shameful fact that today in our poor-houses and in our charitable institutions are mothers and fathers of men and women who have neglected to show them the honor in their old age that was their due.

Another wonderful trait in the character of Jesus and one which all men will do well to imitate is that trait spoken of by Paul in these words, "Though he was a Son yet learned obedience by the things which he suffered." At all times

NEWS from ORANGE COUNTY

BEGIN WORK ON NEW BUILDING AT CAPISTRANO

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Feb. 7.—Under the direction of Contractor Fulmer, men and teams began work last week on the new business block to be erected by John Forster opposite the Forster block.

The building will have a frontage on Main street of 110 feet and will contain five store rooms on the first floor. It is understood that the upper floor will contain a studio and several housekeeping apartments.

Three of the store rooms are said to have been leased by local business concerns. The building will be of stucco, with an attractive arcade frontage with tile roof.

Contractor Fulmer hopes to have the block ready for occupancy by the first of May.

TIDES EXPLAINED IN CHURCH FILM

By HELEN LOCKWOOD COFFIN

NEWPORT BEACH, Feb. 7.—The people who went early and got seats or those who went later and got standing room, know all about the tides now, how they come, and when and where and how. It was like sitting in a box somewhere in the Milky Way and watching the sun and the moon and the stars go by.

This was one of the most interesting movies that has been shown at any of the community gatherings in the Newport church and was generously applauded. Other films on this same program included a travelogue on Holland, an explanation of how the human eye functions and a comedy of Felix, the cat.

The local film was a two-reeler this time, an encore of the one shown last week and a new one in which many local celebrities appeared. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur F. Brown gave the film for this reel and were shown in their ocean front home. Claude Sweetman gave the one repeated and many in the audience were glad of a second chance to see his clever bricklaying hands at work.

Louis Briggs, accompanied by his wife, played two solos on his flute. The Rev. Mr. Stockton, the pastor of the church, told a story of "Safety Matches."

Chamber Dinner At Costa Mesa Set for Feb. 22

COSTA MESA, Feb. 7.—Finances for the operation of the Costa Mesa chamber of commerce will be discussed at the dinner in the clubhouse February 22. It was announced today.

The dinner will be unique in that the meal will be prepared entirely by men. Prize donated by merchants totaling several hundred dollars will be given away. Music and several entertainment stunts are being arranged for. N. O. Mellett, chairman of the committee, states that many tickets have been sold to the affair.

LOS ALAMITOS

LOS ALAMITOS, Feb. 7.—M. J. Hummick of Bellflower, has leased the grocery and meat store formerly occupied by H. T. O'Connor.

The Altar society of St. Ignace's church met on Thursday afternoon at the home of H. T. O'Connor. The president, Mrs. S. Stokes, opened the meeting. Minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Miss Ruby Lemus. After the general business had been disposed of, a social hour was enjoyed.

The Pinocetta club held its regular meeting on Friday afternoon in the water company's building, with Mrs. R. Thompson, Mrs. E. Amos and Mrs. Bloomquist as hostesses. This being vine day, Mrs. Bloomquist presented each woman with a year old grape vine and a cutting. A social hour of bridge followed. First prize being awarded to Mrs. W. J. Mix. The consolation went to Mrs. B. F. Heath.

TALBERT

TALBERT, Feb. 7.—Mr. and Mrs. Harold Swift were hosts at a dinner party given in their home in honor of Mrs. Swift's cousin and family. Mr. and Mrs. Leland Plavan and Dick Robbins, all of Santa Ana, formed a party to Garden Grove Friday evening to a dance.

21 Nations Will Be Represented In H. B. Pageant

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Feb. 7.—Twenty-one nations are to be represented in a pageant to be given in the city auditorium February 12 under the auspices of the First Baptist church of this city.

The pageant of the various nations will be a unique one in that the characters will actually represent 21 different nations.

OPERATORS WATCH SAN MARTINEZ RIG

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Feb. 7.—With the Standard Oil company bringing in a 2000-barrel well in the western part of Huntington Beach, and the San Martinez Oil company's test well on the east side of the field getting to a depth where important disclosures may be expected, the interest of operators in that field is almost equally divided between the two areas.

So far as other operators are concerned the San Martinez project is considerably more important than the Standard's fine producer on the Pacific Electric, because the success of the San Martinez well will affect directly a large number of companies and individuals, while the Standard's big wells on the Bluffs affect no organizations other than the Standard and the Pacific Electric railway.

While an actual showings have been found in the San Martinez well, the formations penetrated are said to correlate favorably with the formations in the proven area, and several geological experts have committed themselves to the opinion that the well is likely to prove a new producing area. This is anticipated by lease agents who have rounded up most of the lots loose in that part of Huntington Beach.

Regardless of developments either to the west or east, it is generally admitted that the Huntington Beach city field has reached its peak. New completions, with the exception of the wells of the Standard, west of the town-lots area, are not as prolific as the old wells are declining rapidly, and several of them are developing water trouble.

Production men, figuring thickness of oil zones, degree of saturation, and number of wells, have estimated that the average life of a flowing well in the city field should be about 16 weeks. After that the average well will go on the pump, and its production will be more or less steady for an indefinite period, according to these estimates. So far, the walking-beam is the exception at Huntington Beach, but the general opinion is that they will begin to appear in the near future.

Road Body to Hold Fullerton Meeting Tonight

FULLERTON, Feb. 7.—The meeting of the Greater Manchester Boulevard Improvement association will be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the American Legion hall, Fullerton.

At this meeting reports will be made by the committees from the various communities along its proposed route as to the progress made.

Sam Duxett will preside and members of the Los Angeles planning commission will be present.

According to the reports made at the last meeting, held two weeks ago, legal proceedings in Los Angeles county on connection with the road have been completed before Monday's meeting.

Barbers' Frolic Set for Feb. 22

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Feb. 7.—Barbers of this city will stage a frolic at the Antler's hall February 22, it was announced today.

The dance will be open to the public. "Bud" P. Brubaker and Joseph Bodman, president and secretary, respectively, of the local barber's union are in charge of the arrangements.

Barbers from all sections of Orange county will be invited to attend the affair. Barbers of the town plan to make it the first of a series of annual frolics. The Lewellyn orchestra, Anaheim, will furnish the music. Decorations will be of a patriotic order in commemoration of Washington's birthday anniversary.

ORANGE

ORANGE, Feb. 7.—Wayne Blackburn, local high school athlete, paid a $10 fine in Recorder G. W. Ingle's court Saturday morning on a charge of speeding 35 miles per hour at a 15-mile intersection.

H. W. Ware and H. F. Partidge of Ohio, who have been visiting the R. B. Johnson family in Villa Park for the past three weeks, today embarked on the S. S. Manchuria at San Pedro to return home via the Panama canal and New York.

Mrs. Truman McInnis entertained Wednesday at her Chapman avenue home at a luncheon for Mrs. Robert S. Steel and Mrs. Steel's daughters, Mrs. Cornell Buffman and Mrs. Arthur Monheim, of Los Angeles. The afternoon was spent at bridge.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Lane, of 274 North Glassell street, left Saturday for Long Beach, where they will make their home with their daughter, Mrs. J. C. Kadau.

Mrs. W. B. Oliver and Miss Margaret Oliver, of Colton, spent the week-end in Orange. Mrs. Oliver will leave shortly to make her home in Carothers.

F. T. Hagen, of New Virginia, Iowa, returned home Friday after a six weeks' visit with his brother, William Hagen.

Mrs. Ruth Vickers, of San Francisco, formerly Miss Ruth Mellon, of Orange, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Ray Moore at 176 North Center street.

Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Nelson, of Fairbury, Nebraska, are visiting with B. M. Huff and family, of 143 South Shaffer street.

C. E. Lane and family of 322 South Olive street, are moving to 727 West Chapman avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Groat, of 462 North Glassell street, are moving to R. D. No. 1, Box 85, Santa Ana.

CONSTRUCTION STARTS ON JOINT NEWPORT BEACH P. E. SOUTHERN PACIFIC DEPO

NEWPORT BEACH, Feb. 7.—Workmen today were laying the foundation for the joint Southern Pacific and Pacific Electric depot here. The site is between the Southern Pacific and the Pacific Electric tracks near Twenty-third street. A group of citizens of Newport Beach presented the site for the depot to the railway companies several years ago.

The new depot will contain waiting rooms, rest rooms, ticket office and freight department. L. S. Wilkinson, local agent for the Southern Pacific lines, will be in charge.

The Western Union Telegraph company and the American Railway Express company will have headquarters in the depot.

Newport Beach has been without a depot for the past two years. The old Southern Pacific grade which carried the trains onto the Newport Beach pier was torn down two years ago and the old depot was razed at that time. Since that time a box car has served as a depot.

Work on the new depot will be rushed, according to reports, and it is expected that the building will be ready for occupancy about April 1.

TOWN LOT FIELD AT H. B. PROLIFIC

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Feb. 7.—The new oil field in the town lot section of Huntington Beach is more prolific than the old oil field in its boom days. It was reported today by J. A. Armitage, secretary of the local chamber of commerce, that the field has produced figures which show that the average production per well in the new section is several hundred barrels more than it was in the old section.

According to Armitage, there were about 400 wells in the old section of town and the field produced about 130,000 barrels of oil per day at its peak. The new section has about 150 wells and at its peak a few weeks ago was producing about 90,000 barrels per day. The average production of the oil field was about 325 barrels per day per well, while the town lot section has been producing at the rate of more than 600 barrels per day from each well, Armitage declares.

The town lot section has declined to a total production of about 65,000 barrels per day, but on the other hand, the old field has declined until it produces only about 40,000 barrels of oil per day.

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Feb. 7.—Mrs. Harlow Halliday and children, Betty and Whitney, were in Santa Ana Saturday.

Mrs. D. J. McHenry shopped in Santa Ana Saturday.

Mrs. D. E. Ross returned home Saturday afternoon after visiting with her mother, Mrs. M. M. Cooper, for a few days.

Burt Ostot, of Ostot's drug store, has offered the profit from the sales at his soda fountain for Thursday to the Parent-Teacher association. A cooked food sale will be held the same day at the drug store by the members of the association.

Bill De Wolf of the county road department was in Capistrano Friday and Saturday.

The February meeting of the Woman's club has been postponed one week. Mrs. Oscar Guilbert, Mrs. H. H. Halliday and Mrs. W. M. Callis will entertain at the home of Mrs. Guilbert on February 22.

EL MODENA

EL MODENA, Feb. 7.—Miss Dorothy Lutz is getting along nicely at the Orange County hospital, where she underwent a major operation Tuesday.

Edwin Settle was in San Bernardino Wednesday evening with the basketball team for the junior college, Santa Ana.

A pleasant birthday supper was enjoyed Friday evening at the R. C. Adams home, the occasion being the birthday of his mother, Mrs. John L. Adams, of Santa Ana. Those helping Mrs. Adams celebrate were John L. Adams and Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Elgin, of Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Settle, Herschel, Henrietta and Hazel Settle, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Adams and Eva Adams.

The members of the W. C. T. U. are preparing for an evening meeting next Thursday, when they will entertain their husbands. The meeting will be held at the home of George Stoner on East Walnut.

Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Hodson have gone on a motor trip to San Diego, where they will visit their son and his bride. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hodson. The Hodsons made the trip with another son and his family, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hodson and son, Melvin.

There was a business meeting of the W. C. T. U. at the home of Mrs. Mary Lentz Thursday evening. Mr. and Mrs. J. H. LeGrand were present to make arrangements for the drive for raising the building and endowment fund.

CHAMBER OBJECTS TO BEACH DRILLING

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Feb. 7.—Local chamber of commerce members object to oil drilling on the beach or on tidelands and this week sent letters to Chester M. Kline and Dr. C. D. Ball assemblers, asking them to take action to remedy an assembly bill which, the chamber of commerce believes would allow the leasing of tidelands.

That oil drilling on the beach or on tidelands would destroy the beach's valuation as a recreation place, is the contention of the chamber of commerce.

4 Injured When Automobile Hits Truck at Beach

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Feb. 7.—Three local oil workers and a Santa Ana woman, whose name was not made public, were injured in an accident here at 2:30 this morning. The accident occurred when the large coupe in which the four were riding crashed into a truck load of pipe near Twenty-third street and Ocean avenue.

Buck Jones was the driver of the coupe. His two companions were Lew Lawton and James Mitchell, according to reports. The coupe is said to belong to "Buck" Brown, of this city. The name of the truck driver was not learned. He was not injured.

Two of the passengers in the coupe were treated at the Oil Fields Emergency hospital by Dr. Beverly Young and two at the Emergency hospital by Dr. R. E. Hawes. No detailed report of the accident had been made at local police headquarters this morning.

Musical Program Planned at H. B.

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Feb. 7.—Plans for a concert which will include band numbers and selections by singers from all sections of Orange county are being arranged by Will H. Gallienne, manager of the Huntington Beach municipal band. The band recently started a series of rehearsals in preparation for the concert. The concert will be given at the high school auditorium.

More than 40 musicians now belong to the band. According to Gallienne, a number of special pieces are being prepared for the concert. Singers from the Orange County Choral union and other well-known county vocalists will be asked to take part in the program.

Society Bride Back at Home as Marriage Fails

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—The former Nancy Hoyt, society bride, whose marriage last summer in London to Gerald Wynn followed the breaking of her engagement a few hours before the time set for her wedding to another Englishman, Lt. Frederick Wiseman-Clarke, of the royal navy, has left her husband here to live with her mother, the Washington Post says.

Friends of the couple, the paper adds, say the separation is a "temporary" one and that it is simply a case of "temperamental difference."

Mrs. Wynn, who is the daughter of the late Henry A. Hoyt, solicitor general under President Taft, has gone to her mother's home on Rhode Island avenue, while her husband retains possession of their apartment at the Anchorage.

Little surprise is expressed in society circles here over the separation. Mrs. Wynn has been engaged for some time in writing articles for magazines and other periodicals.

RAT OR GOAT

PARADE, Nev., Feb. 7.—John S. Case captured huge rat in a coyote trap he set recently. Case said it was as large as a rabbit and had killed his house cat and escaped from three gopher traps.

STOCK OF HOME STATE BANK IN DEAL REPORT

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Feb. 7.—A number of well known Los Angeles and northern California banking men have become affiliated with the Home State bank, through the purchase of a large block of stock. It was reported today. The names of the men who have bought into the bank could not be learned today. It is said, however, that they are among the best known private bankers in the state.

The deal, which is reported to have involved a major portion of the bank, was concluded some time ago but news of the transaction did not leak out until today. Reports to the effect that the Home State bank has consolidated with a larger institution are unfounded, according to its officials.

The personnel of the bank will remain the same, it is reported. The bank has shown an increase in deposits of more than 40 per cent during the past year and a recent report shows that the deposits during the past year amounted to more than $500,000.

MASONS TO HEAR TALK ON EDUCATION

ORANGE, Feb. 7.—M. C. Summers of Hollywood will speak at the meeting of the Orange Grove lodge of Masons tomorrow evening in the Masonic hall.

Summers will use as his subject, "Education." The meeting will open at 6:30 o'clock with a dinner.

Announcement was made recently that the clubroom equipment ordered some time ago by the lodge would arrive shortly. Purchases include billiard, pool and library tables, six overstuffed chairs, two rugs and other articles necessary to the complete furnishing of the room. The cost is understood to be close to $1300.

Masons to Stage Minstrel Show

ORANGE, Feb. 7.—Presentation of a minstrel show early in March is the next affair planned by the Royal Arch chapter of Masons. It was announced by Joe Leak, chairman of the entertainment committee.

Public Utility Diversification

Although the bonds of sound public utility companies are believed to be less subject to disturbing influences than those connected with some other industries, it is advisable to broadly diversify public utility investments. Engineered to lowest maintenance and operation costs

The Super-Six Principle also revealed in the ESSEX Super-SIX

An outstanding characteristic of the Essex Super-Six is the complete absence of labor with which it performs every requirement.

At the getaway you swing into speed with magic ease. There is no jerk, vibration or mechanical chatter, no waste motion, no explosive jump—sometimes mistaken for acceleration. You glide to the front with flying freedom and ease. And so smoothly you scarce realize how swiftly.

And, so, in all it does, whether spurring at top speed, or doing a comfortable fifty miles an hour all day long, you can realize its silky super-performance, only by the way you distance others.

This smoothness means ECONOMY—economy of effort, economy of power, economy in the long life of all moving parts. And in making long tours, or using your Essex all day in city traffic you will find the further economy of physical freshness, that comes from its easy driving, riding, steering and control, and its freedom from vibration at all speeds.

In four beautiful new Essex bodies—handsomely appointed and upholstered—the advantages of the released Super-Six principle costs you a little more than any "Four".

AN IMPORTANT ELECTION

Emphasis should be put at this time upon the far-reaching importance of the city election, to be held in Santa Ana in April. When we pause for a moment and look ahead for four years, we get a view of the many matters of consequence that are to be determined during the coming four years, a view of the importance of policies that are to be shaped.

If a bill now before the state legislature becomes law, it will be the duty of the next board of city trustees to decide whether Santa Ana will have the opportunity to institute the city manager system of attending to city business. That question alone is worthy of the best thought and action of the citizens of Santa Ana. Everyone who has studied Santa Ana problems at all has given thought to the routing of traffic, to the possible widening of streets, to the institution of a civic center, to the establishment of a park system. These are but a few of the matters to come within the work of the next city council.

The selection of a school board is of high consequence, not only because the board will have charge of the routine conduct of school business, but is to have many matters of great importance before it. The building of a new junior high school, the separation of the junior college from the high school, the location of a new junior college, the determination of whether Santa Ana high school district will combine with other high school districts for the purpose of organizing a county junior college district, or a district comprising high school districts in the southern half of the county—these matters are coming up. For this work alone, Santa Ana should have a board of education of its most capable, clear-headed and experienced citizens.

DEVIL'S ISLANDS OF ITALY

Americans who go to Italy, see the order and industry maintained by Mussolini, are graciously permitted to shake that great man's hand and come home singing the praises of Fascism and dictatorship, you may depend on it, have not seen the "Devil's Islands," and probably have not even heard of them.

Several small, parched islands off the coast of Sicily constitute Italy's "Siberia," though a less attractive one than that to which the Russian czars sent their political critics. For centuries they have been a dumping ground for criminals. They are described as "squalid, desolate, ravaged by malaria and without water or vegetation."

"Only incorrigible criminals, expelled from civil life after scores of convictions, have ever been sent there in the past. Life on the islands is primitive and frightful. There are continual crimes and all sorts of degeneracy. The villages are nests of vermin-infested hovels. Now well educated men and women of irreproachable life, accused only of thinking freely and proudly, are forced to live in those colonies of outcasts."

Prisoners deported during the Russian czarist rule at least were tried and condemned by regular, civil magistrates, however unfair the trial. But these prisoners have no such privilege. They are arrested on suspicion of being opposed to the Fascist regime, and condemned without a trial by the Fascist courts that have usurped the power of the legal tribunals.

They are separated from their families and sent into hideous exile, as an Italian writer expresses it, "for the crime of daring to think freely and proudly." Nearly 1000 of the best minds of Italy are said to be rotting now in that freeman's hell, part of the price paid for Italian "order and progress."

COLLEGE COMES TO HOMES

"If you cannot come to Columbia, Columbia will come to you." That is the beginning of the announcement of Columbia university's Department of Home Study which aims to make available to students, by mail, most of the advantages of instruction of university grade.

The range of study is wide, including courses equivalent to the four years of high school as well as college or university courses. The announcement lists more than 50 courses and an accompanying letter suggests:

"If your study needs are not covered in this list, mention them specifically when writing for information," because courses are constantly being added to the curriculum.

This is an extension of university study to anybody who feels an urge to advance his education in any line. It admits many individuals left out in the usual university mail courses which are limited to qualified students.

This move on the part of the country's leading universities recognizes the popular thirst for education, just as our University of California has recognized it for years. Opening to the general public the resources of a wealthy and well-equipped educational institution, it is an interesting and important educational development.

HOW TO HAVE APLOMB

The famous Coue system of kidding oneself into self-improvement has a new rival. The principle seems to be the same, but the method is different. There is no magic formula or ritual at all. You simply hang up on the wall of your bedroom luminous printed signs, turn off the light and gaze at them until you fall asleep.

The signs are said to be eight in number, all calculated to strengthen the subject's self-confidence. They read: "I am calm," "Everywhere I am at ease," "I speak firmly," "I am another man," "I dominate," "My self-assurance increases," "My mind is lucid," "I have aplomb."

The inventor of this system, a young physician named Martine, says he has thousands of testimonials to its effectiveness.

So far, his magic seems to be applied mainly for purposes of business and social development. It is obviously calculated to develop strong, dominant go-getters out of persons who, in their own esteem, are nothing but poor fish to begin with.

Far be it from us to discourage any timid soul in his quest for power and self-assertion. It does seem, however, as if there is in this country at present a pretty adequate supply of self-assured go-getters equipped with ease, firmness and aplomb, even if they do, now and then, fall a bit short of perfect lucidity.

In some cases we might suggest variations in the luminous signs, reading, perhaps: "I am modest," "I am considerate," "I do not butt in," "I persuade rather than compel."

Otherwise there is danger that the harassed ultimate consumer will be driven in self-defense, to decorate his bedroom with illuminated mottoes impressing upon his inner consciousness such saving truths as: "I am my own master," "I am resistant," "I am thrifty," "I don't fall for everything that any graduate of a practical psychology course tries to sell me."

Some of the people who are horrified because 4,000 Americans are dying per year from poisonous alcohol never seem to have noticed it when, before the prohibition era, 6,000 per year died of acute alcoholism from drinking the pure stuff.

Rights of Judge and Jury

San Bernardino Sun

A very unusual thing recently happened in a court in California. In the case of a man tried for murder in the first degree, which carried with it the death penalty. The judge reduced it to murder in the second degree and imposed a sentence of imprisonment for life. The supreme court is to be asked to say whether or not a judge has the power in that way to change the verdict of the jury. If the case were reversed and the court raised the verdict from second degree to first and gave a sentence of death no one would contend that it had such power. Can the court take action in favor of a criminal and against the state that it could not take in the reverse?

As our jurisprudence is administered the answer would be in the affirmative. Under it we do many things to relieve criminals from the penalty of their crimes. The least technical error against what is called the rights of the prisoner results in his freedom, but no such note is taken of an error against the prosecution. The convicted criminal may appeal to the supreme court on all sorts of flimsy pretenses, and often gain his freedom. The judge may charge the jury in words hostile to the state as much as he may choose, but if he even hints anything against the welfare of the prisoner at the bar, it is a grave error.

In every possible way what are called the rights of one charged with crime are zealously protected. There is no such protection for the rights of society. So, there is no doubt that a judge would not be sustained in increasing a sentence given by a jury, while he is quite likely to be sustained in diminishing it. We have almost reverence for the infallibility of a jury. Whatever it does is right, even when we know it to be wrong. We do not even permit the state court to comment to the jury on the credibility of witnesses and the value of their testimony, although a judge is trained in such matters and the jury is not. All one charged with crime ought to have is an even break with the state, but in actual practice he gets about an 80 to 20 chance, if not better than that. It is no wonder so few who commit crime finally land in jail.

The Public-Land States

Oakland Tribune

California is one of the twenty so-called public land states, which during each year receive great sums from the government and return large sums in revenues. Listing those states, for the money there spent and the amount returned, Secretary Work of the Interior Department has found California is leader in each classification.

The principal expenditures of the federal government in California last year, including items for public works, defense, education, health and recreation amounted to $12,694,635. The second state was Oklahoma, with $57,722,900.

When it came to the receipts from these sources in the public-land states, California led with $37,613,227. There are only three states in the union which received more public money than California returned to the treasury. Again, Oklahoma is the second state in receipts.

The population of the public-land states is more than one-fifth of that of the country. The total area is about sixty per cent of that of continental United States and of it $7.52 per cent consists of public lands, national forests, national parks and Indian reservations under control of the federal government.

When the receipts and expenditures are compared it is found that the federal government gives approximately $2.50 for every dollar contributed by the states, though here the proportion is two to one. Leading the expenditures are departments which have little to do with public lands. The navy spent over 32 millions in California; the postoffice 27 millions; and the interior department, with almost 16 millions is third. The postoffice returned more than was spent in its interests as did the labor department and federal power commission.

University of Los Angeles

Fresno Republican

And while we are considering names, we can note that the regents of the University of California have finally decided on what to call their institution at Los Angeles.

For the few years since the State Normal school at Los Angeles was annexed to the state university, it has been called by the awkward name of "Southern Branch of the University of California." In these years it has risen to the rank of a full four years, degree conferring, largely endowed and well attended institution. It patrons and faculty and students have irked at the "Southern Branch" designation. They themselves devised the name of "University of California of Los Angeles."

There were objections to this on the part of the more zealous and patriotic defenders of the university at Berkeley. To have a "University of California in Los Angeles" meant, they felt, the converse, calling their institution the "University of California in Berkeley," something that they did not like.

But the logic of the situation has all been in favor of a coordination of terms. The institution at Berkeley will continue to be the mother college. It will, at least for many years, have the graduate schools, certain special lines of research, and the prestige of being the "first." But the University of California at Los Angeles is too great to be put on a lower plane. Its students are undergraduates, are just as much sharers in the bounty of the state of California as are those at Berkeley, and must so be acknowledged.

Editorial Shorts

A state bond issue for $6,000,000 is proposed by Senator Breed of Alameda for the purpose of acquiring state parks. The purchase of the Santa Cruz islands and of a large tract at Lake Tahoe is contemplated, in the event the bond issue is submitted and approved. Why not include a tract in the San Jacinto mountains? Mt. San Jacinto is the most unique peak in the country; and if it were made a state park, we might hope to see a road built to the summit.—Riverside Press.

What This Country Needs Is a Little Co-operation

Character In the Face

By JAMES BEATTIE

While the bloom of youth lasts, and the smoothness of feature peculiar to that period, the human face is less marked with any strong character than in old age.

A peevish or surly stripping may elude the eye of the physiognomist; but a wicked old man whose visage does not betray the evil temperature of his heart must have more cunning than it would be prudent for him to acknowledge.

Even by trade or profession the human countenance may be characterized. They who employ themselves in the nicer mechanical arts, that require the earnest attention of the artist, do generally contract a fixedness of feature suited to that one uniform sentiment which engrosses them while at work. Whereas other artists, whose work requires less attention, and who ply their trade and amuse themselves with conversation at the same time, have, for the most part smoother and more unmeaning faces; their thoughts are more miscellaneous, and therefore, their features are less fixed in one uniform configuration.

A keen, penetrating look indicates thoughtfulness and spirit; a dull, torpid countenance is not often accompanied with great sagacity.

This, though there may be many exceptions, is in general true of the visible signs of our passions; and it is no less true of the audible.

A man habitually peevish, or passionate, or querulous, or imperious, may be known by the sound of his voice, as well as by his physiognomy.

TREES

I think I shall not mind the abysmal night
When the last sun shall kiss the maple's tips,
Lingering, like farewells on lovers' lips,
Since God has granted these for my delight;

Poplars in a drowsy dawn, swaying shadow-slim,
Along a hall that overlooks a pool—
Or watching tiptoe, mist-green, silver-cool,
While the sun dips behind the world's red rim.

See, ebony-etched against a primrose sky,
Where the dark cypress lifts a lofty head;
Near some such loveliness, when I am dead,
I think this restless heart would quiet lie.

I could be happy without streets of gold,
Or chalcidony walls—without all these
That God has promised; but my heart will hold A yearning ache if heaven should have no trees.
—Beryl V. Thompson in the New York Times.

COULD DO BETTER

At a country fair $25 was offered as a prize to the person who could come closest to guessing the weight of a certain cow. Everybody tried his skill, and last of all came Joe, regarded by most as being simple-minded. To their amazement he named the exact weight off-hand.

"How did you do it?" asked the judge, after he had presented the prize.

"'Twasn't nothin'," replied the judge, of the occasion, modestly. "I'd a done better than that if I'd a been in practice."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

"Fine! Then we can tell her exactly what we think of her."—Passing Show, London.

Little Benny's Note Book

We was having langwidge in skool today, Miss Kitty saying, Now you all understand wat verbs are, does anyone in the class know wat an adverb is?

Lorrence Hopper raising his hand and saying, A adverb is a verb added to another verb, making a add verb.

Very logical but extremely foolish, Miss Kitty sed. An adverb is a word that modifies a verb and expresses manner, or in other words how. Now ill give you a sentence. The herd flew, and I want someone to finish the sentence with an adverb, she sed.

Wich pritty soon, Leroy Shooster waved his hand, saying, The herd flew on the 4th of July.

I don't doubt it, but how? Miss Kitty sed.

With its wings, Leroy Shooster sed.

How rediculous, I will ask Sidney Hunt to finish the sentence with an adverb, Miss Kitty sed.

The same sentence? Sid Hunt sed.

Certainly, Miss Kitty sed, and Sid sed, Up.

Wat? Miss Kitty sed, and Sid sed, The herd flew up.

Of course it did, naturally, but how? Miss Kitty sed.

With its wings, Sid sed.

Such a class, the herd flew swiftly in an adverb modifying the verb flew, I will give you some more examples for your homework and we will now pass on to joggerfly, Miss Kitty sed.

Wich we did.

In the Long Ago

Your Income Tax

This is one of a series of articles, based on the revenue act of 1926, written by the U. S. Bureau of Internal Revenue.

No. 19
Income includes gains realized by the sale of a single piece of property as well as from sales by a person engaged in buying and selling as a business. Ordinarily, gain or loss resulting from the sale of property acquired by purchase after February 28, 1913—the first income tax law applying to individual income becoming effective March 1, 1913—is the difference between the cost and the selling price. The gain is income for the year in which received and can not be prorated through a number of years. For example, a taxpayer bought in 1919 a piece of real estate for $5,000, which he sold in 1926 for $7,000. The $2,000 profit is taxable income for the year 1926.

Profit accrued on individual income before March 1, 1913, is not taxable, even though it was not realized until after that date. The reason is that the constitutional amendment authorizing congress to tax the income of individuals did not become effective until March 1, 1913. The revenue act of 1926 provides that the basis for determining the gain or loss from the sale or other disposition of property acquired by purchase before March 1, 1913, shall be the cost of such property or the fair market value as of March 1, 1913, whichever is greater. For example, a taxpayer bought in 1910 property for which he paid $10,000. The value on March 1, 1913, was $12,000. He sold it in 1926 for $14,000. The March 1, 1913, value being greater than the cost of the

INCOME TAX IN A NUTSHELL

WHO? Single persons who had net income of $1,500 or more or gross income of $5,000 or more, and married couples who had net income of $3,500, or more or gross income of $5,000 or more must file returns.

WHEN? The filing period ends March 15, 1927.

WHERE? Collectors of internal revenue for the district in which the person lives or has his principal place of business.

HOW? Instructions on Forms 1040A and 1040; also the law and regulations.

WHAT? One and one-half per cent normal tax on the first $4,000 in excess of the personal exemptions and credits. Three per cent normal tax on the next $4,000. Five per cent normal tax on the balance of net income. Surtax on net income in excess of $10,000.

property, the taxable gain is figured on that basis, and amounts to $2,000.

A taxpayer bought in 1910 property for which he paid $5,000. Its value on March 1, 1913, was $5,500, and in 1926 he sold it for $4,000. In this example the taxpayer has his loss on the March 1, 1913, value, which was greater than the cost, and the deductible loss is $1,500.

Put Water on Land

Ramona Sentinel

There are two theories or systems proposed for the continued growth and improvement of this coast country. One is the speculative and the other the practical.

The speculative or investor thinks only in terms of increased population and land value without regard to how that result is secured or upon what sort of a basis it rests. He purchases and holds real estate without using it, relying upon an increase in population and improvement made by others in adjoining property to render his own of greater value so his profits will be increased without effort on his part. His idea is that people will keep on coming to California because of the attractive climate and the opportunities for healthful recreation, that it affords, and their coming will increase values and bring prosperity.

He is not greatly concerned about what such people shall do after their arrival. He thinks of them as just buying property and living here, not of what they will do to earn a livelihood. Hence his views include only the well-to-do, those have accumulated competencies and are not obliged or inclined to work for a living. It is a favorable declaration of his that eventually this whole region for 15 or 20 miles east of San Diego will be annexed to the city. He talks of our country roads as being city streets and of our entire population as city dwellers. Apparently it never occurs to him to ask what such vast number of people are going to do after they are so comfortably housed on city lots with rose gardens in the front yards, never going farther than to think of them as enjoying climate and scenery. To him water on land is for the purpose of serving household or domestic use only.

On the other hand the typical practical booster for Southern California thinks of the country as one in which to work and earn a livelihood as well as to live and play in. He invites the poor as well as the rich and it is his greatest desire to so conserve and develop the natural resources of the country that the man of small means may have a job and the opportunity to work and earn a competency after coming here as well as before. He believes that, while California is as near an ideal state as any in the world for the rich and well-to-do to live in, it is a still better state for the poor man to work and earn a living in; it is pre-eminently the home of the comparatively poor, and to make it more so and keep it so the water must be put on the land and used to make the land productive.

There is a vast amount of fantastic talk about wide stretches of country roads becoming city lots and city streets, but those who indulge in it never seem to do, any straight thinking as to how large such a population would be or how the people would occupy their time if they were here. As a matter of fact it will be many years before the expectations and predictions of these resolute speculators will be 10 per cent realized and a large majority of men now living will have passed on before such predictions will be half realized.

In the meantime the obvious duty and effort of all is to water the lands and make them productive—to increase in every possible way the practice of irrigation for production. In that way only will city population increase on any substantial basis. Lands added to cities are always irrigated first. It is the garden acres and citrus groves about Los Angeles that are subdivided and sold as city lots, not raw and unimproved lands.

Hence the only sure and practical way to increase city population and extend city boundaries, if that be desirable, is to increase productive lands. To that end one practical poultryman, citrus grower or vegetable raiser is worth half a dozen rich people who have no intention of working and producing. We want new wealth produced out of the soil more than we do that which is brought here in the form of money from other states. No exclusive tourist country in the world ever amounted to anything, and when the people of California discard the effort to attract tourists rather than people of industry and workers its prosperity and commercial greatness will be on a much surer foundation.

The inevitable conclusion is that the present policy of drawing the water of the country away for city use is nothing but economic suicide. To take water off land or to make it impossible or more difficult to put it on, in order to use such water for domestic supplies anywhere, is a policy so utterly foolish and destructive that to advocate and practice it, or to attempt to practice it, reflects upon the sanity and sound sense of any people.

Some day perhaps—let it be hoped before it is too late—the truth of this will be realized and a decently sensible plan of co-operation and joint development in the interests of both city and country will be thought out and adopted. In the meantime the voice of one urging it is as the voice of one crying in the wilderness of selfish schemes and economic insanity.

Did You Ever Stop to Think

By Edson R. Walte, Secretary, Shawnee, Okla., Board of Commerce

JAMES M. THOMPSON, PUBLISHER OF THE NEW ORLEANS ITEM, SAYS:

"I recently the New Orleans Item and Morning Tribune, in conjunction with leading daily newspapers in each of the Southern states, made a survey of through highway conditions in the Southern states. This survey developed the fact that the South is spending at the rate of a quarter of a billion dollars a year on its roads and that it has through highway systems which are greater than those of the United States hitherto little known and rather inaccessible to the other hundred million people who live on the North American continent.

Moreover, this survey developed the fact that more than a quarter of a billion dollars is to be spent during the year 1927 in the further building and improvement of the highways in the Southern states.

THE MANUFACTURERS RECORD, IN A RECENT ISSUE, STATED THAT THERE ARE OVER $20,000,000,000 INVESTED IN AMERICAN MOTOR CARS. AMERICA'S INVESTMENT IN HIGHWAYS IS RAPIDLY BECOMING FAR GREATER THAN ITS INVESTMENT IN RAILWAYS. AND IN WATERWAYS. I FAVOR THE IDEA OF THE SOUTHERN STATES CO-OPERATING IN AN ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN TO THE NATION, TELLING THE MOTORISTS OF THE NATION THAT THEY CAN NOW TRAVEL THROUGH THE SOUTH AND WHAT THEY WILL SEE HERE IN THEIR OWN COUNTRY. THAT WILL INTEREST AND ADVANTAGE THEM. (Copyright, 1927)
